Trucker Exonerated After Investigation Of Route 22 Accident

Miss Ada G. Lutz, 49, injured last Thursday afternoon when she stepped into the path of a heavily-laden truck, died in Berger Hospital Sunday at 12:05 a. m. Miss Lutz suffered from a fractured skull. She had remained in a semi-conscious condition since the mishap that happened in front of the Clinton Stout home, Washington Township, when a gust of wind jerked an empty egg basket from her hand and she started to chase it across Route 22.

Miss Lutz was struck by the vehicle driven west by Lloyd Campbell of Newark who was hauling paper wood to Chillicothe for B. H. Collins of Stoutsville. Investigating authorities exonerated the trucker who had slowed his vehicle almost to a stop before it struck Miss Lutz.

Miss Lutz was a native of Salt-creek Township, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Lutz. She had been employed as a housekeeper at the Clinton Stout residence.

Surviving are her mother; a half-brother and three half-sisters. The funeral will be Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Albaugh Co. Chapel, the Rev. Martin Wenrich of Stoutsville officiating with burial in Whisler Cemetery. Pall bearers will include Lloyd Lutz, Earl Hoffman, Earl Stout and Clinton Stout.

JOCK WHITNEY'S WIFE IN RENO FOR DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., April 8 — Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Altman Whitney was in residence at Reno today for the admitted purpose of divorcing John Hay (Jock) Whitney, millionaire sportsman and movie executive.

In Reno last month for a motion picture premiere, Mrs. Whitney then denied divorce rumors. At that time, she was seen constantly in the company of Actor Bruce Cabot.

However, she returned to the divorce capital by automobile, accompanied by her four dogs, and after renting quarters in the fashionable Riverside Hotel, admitted that on completion of the required six weeks' residence she would seek to sever her marital bond with the wealthy Whitney, whom she wed in Philadelphia in 1931.

Mystery Attack

REFUSING to tell police his motive, George Davis, 25, was held by Chicago, Pa., police who charge he threw cleaning fluid on his mother, Mrs. Emma Moore, as she lay injured in bed, and then attempted to burn her to death. Moore then, police said, attacked Mrs. Moore's nurse, Miss Ethel O'Bryan, with a hatchet when she attempted to put out the flames. Miss O'Bryan may have sustained a fractured skull.

WOMAN, 24, WHO SLEW ATHLETE, ESCAPE PRISON

ODESSA, Tex., April 8 — Isabelle Messmer, 24-year-old New Jersey woman under a three-year sentence for the murder of Buford Armstrong, escaped from the Actor County jail, it was discovered this morning.

Police advanced the theory that she had thrown the lever on her cell door when the officer who gave the woman her support for a lock to the lever box. She apparently walked down the hallway to a window and climbed down three floors on lattice work on the outside wall of the building.

The woman was found guilty of slaying Armstrong, a former player on the House of David semi-pro baseball team, at an Odessa tourist camp March 31, 1939. After being sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary, she asked for a new trial. This motion was denied Saturday and her attorney filed notice of appeal.

Clothes missing from the wardrobe at the jail indicated she was wearing a brown blouse, tan overalls, brown slacks and a black hat when she escaped.

She was captured in St. Louis last year and returned to Odessa for the trial.

BIGAMIST CLAIMS THAT HE CAN'T RESIST BEAUTY

NEW YORK, April 8 — "I just can't resist a pretty woman."

This, police asserted today, was the explanation given by Donald M. Young, 27, an electric welder who gave his address as Reading, Pa., when arraigned on charges of bigamy for allegedly having three wives.

Young was arraigned on the complaint of Rose Marie Dunn, 25, whom he married last August. Police said he also had two other wives, Rose Malis, 25, of Brooklyn, and Gladys Corroda, 23, of the Bronx.

Berlin Reiterates Allies In New "Onslaught" To Involve Neutrals

BARGE SINKING PLANNED

Mine Sowing In Norway's Waters Not Surprising To Official Circles

BERLIN, April 8 — Sowing of mines in Norwegian territorial waters by Anglo-French warships and an alleged British plot to block and sabotage the Danubian River were drummed up by German authorities today as an allied "onslaught" to force neutral nations into the European war.

German officials denounced the Anglo-French mine-sowing activities as an allied "declaration of war on neutrals."

At the same time, they declared a British plan to block Danubian River traffic routes from the Black Sea to the Reich had been frustrated with a discovery of a plot to dynamite and sink heavy canal barges lengthwise across the river at the iron gate at the triangle formed by the Rumanian-Hungarian-Yugoslavian borders.

Angry German authorities said Germany would "accept the Anglo-French challenge." One spokesman declared:

"At present we are watching the Allied abolition of international neutrality rights.

"We are determined in every way to reserve all our rights of action."

Part of Major Plot

German officials claimed openly that the Danubian sabotage plot and the mine-laying episode, which caused consternation throughout Scandinavia, were part of a vast Allied attempt to spread the war throughout Europe.

Authentic German quarters refused, however, to answer questions as to whether the Reich will stick to its policy—religiously adhered to so far—of refusing to be provoked into extension of the conflict to the North or Southeast.

Nevertheless, it was made clear that a counter-stroke of some sort by Germany will follow the Allied mine-laying move.

What form it will take was not divulged, but that it will happen, officials said, "can be taken for granted."

Information reached Berlin that the British and French war vessels completed the mine-sowing operation at 5 a. m. and that Allied warships are now patrolling Norway.

BERLIN DOESN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH TARS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8 — Uncertainty again surrounded the future of some 450 German sailors at Angel Island immigration station today following the disclosure that 35 of their fellow seamen from the scuttled Nazi liner Columbus have been removed by British authorities at Gibraltar from the Italian motorship Fella.

The 35 seamen, older members of the Columbus crew en route back to Germany, sailed from San Francisco for Genoa, Italy, February 29. It was estimated the Fella reached Gibraltar April 2 or 3.

The Columbus, a once proud Nazi luxury liner, was scuttled by her crew in the Atlantic several months ago when intercepted by a British destroyer. Her 521 crew members were taken to New York, and thence by train to the Angel Island immigration station on San Francisco Bay.

Sixteen days after the 35 sailed on the Fella, 14 more, also not of military age, left on another Italian motorship, the Rialto. A third group of 14 sailed March 27 for Siberia on the liner Tatuta Maru.

Anti-Lynching Question Threat To Adjournment

WASHINGTON, April 8 — Administration leaders set in motion today a program to bring about adjournment of congress by June 1.

The anti-lynching bill, hardly legislative perennial, provided the major threat to June 1 adjournment. Leaders' strategy was aimed at preventing a prolonged fight over this measure.

Senate leaders laid down a working schedule devised to prevent any "dull spots" or an opportunity for anti-lynching legislation proponents to bring their bill to the floor. They felt that if they could stave off a battle over anti-lynching until mid-May, supporters would abandon their efforts when it was seen that the certain filibuster ahead would delay adjournment until after the Democratic national convention June 24.

Backing up this senate strategy, house leaders expected to effectively block any moves for tax legislation. Chairman Doughton (D) N. C., of the house ways and means committee, which originates tax measures, planned to leave Washington in a short time, a move designed to discourage any real efforts for a tax bill.

GERMAN PLANES FLYING TOWARD SHETLAND AREA

LONDON, April 8 — Royal Air Force planes went aloft in the Shetland Islands area today after an air raid alarm indicated the possible approach of Nazi bombing planes.

While the air ministry announcement did not indicate an attack, it was understood the Nazi planes were sighted flying towards the Shetlands, used by the British navy and air force as a base.

At least two German planes were shot down by British flyers yesterday, and a third badly damaged in encounters over the North Sea and Western Front. Two British planes failed to return from the North Sea fight.

This battle occurred when a patrol of the coastal command intercepted a squadron of Nazi fighter planes. One Nazi plane was shot down in flames and the other limped out of the battle apparently badly damaged.

Royal Air Force headquarters in France issued the following communiqué on the Western Front fight:

"This morning one of our fighter patrols encountered a large formation of enemy fighters in the neighborhood of Metz. The enemy formation attacked our patrol, resulting in a number of individual combats fought at great height.

"One Nazi Messerschmidt 109 was shot down near Boulay, on the Moselle River. All of our aircraft returned safely."

200 Vie for County Scholarship Team

Two hundred county pupils gathered at Circleville High School Saturday to compete for places on the District-State Scholarship team that will compete with teams from 17 counties in Central Ohio at Ohio State University on May 4.

The team from Pickaway County will consist of 32 students in academic subjects and eight in commercial studies. The team will not be chosen until later this week since several students took two examinations and placed well in both. They may take only one test at the district meet at the University and through consultations between the students and supervisors the high scoring students will decide in which examinations they will compete as a member of the team.

Rio De Janeiro Goes To Bottom Off Coast Of Norway; 150 Lost

LONDON, April 8 — Reuters News Agency reported today in a dispatch from Oslo that the German military transport, the Rio De Janeiro, was torpedoed and sunk near Cleronsland, Norway, with a reported loss of 150 lives.

The transport, a vessel of 5200 tons, carried a normal complement of 300 men, it was reported, but some were picked up by nearby ships.

COPENHAGEN, April 8—Three German ships and a fourth vessel whose nationality was unknown were attacked and sunk by Allied naval action today in narrow waters between Denmark and Norway.

Two of the Nazi vessels, the 5800 ton Poseidon and the 2300 ton Kreta, were attacked by submarines after radioing an SOS. The Poseidon was hit by a torpedo.

The name of the third vessel was not available.

Some of the wounded men from the ships reached safety on the shores of Norway.

HARLAN COUNTY MINES CALLED OUT ON STRIKE

HARLAN, Ky., April 8 — Five Harlan County mines were closed today by a strike of 1,400 members of the CIO's United Mine Workers Union.

The strike was called despite the posting of notices invoking the "no-strike" clause in the UMW contract with mine operators.

A 300-man picket line was formed outside the Harlan-Williams Coal company mine at Verda, largest of the five mines affected. Peace was maintained despite threats of trouble.

Harlan County last year was the scene of violence during a UMW walkout. Former Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler instituted virtual martial law in the county by dispatching troops of the state militia.

The union called the strike on charges that the mine operators changed their methods of docking mines for dirt found in mined coal.

R. H. Cornett, secretary of the Harlan-Williams company, said: "We have a no-strike contract with the UMW, and have work notices posted, but no one showed up for work."

"This is the tenth strike called by the union since May, 1939."

Three Harlan-Williams mines were forced into idleness, along with the Darby Coal Corporation and Dixie-Darby Fuel Company pits.

British Would Welcome Engagement With Nazi Fleet, London Says, After Berlin Hits Move As Attempt To Spread War

COUNTER-STEP PLEDGED BY REICH

Swedes, Dutch Quake At Fear They May Be Pulled In; Warships Guard Weapons Dropped At Three Points Off Coast

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
Anglo-French warships entered Norwegian territorial waters today and mined them at three points in a drastic move to tighten the Allied blockade against the Reich. A few hours later, while Allied vessels guarded the mine fields, Norway sent up a bitter protest for fear that she and other neutral Scandinavian nations would be drawn into the European war.

The Oslo government demanded the mines be removed immediately and insisted that Anglo-French warships guarding the mines be withdrawn. Oslo also charged the Allies with violating Norwegian neutrality and sovereignty.

Germany seized on the mine-sowing episode to turn neutral nations against the British and French. This and an alleged British plot to sabotage and block the Danube River, the Reich claimed, represented an Allied attempt to spread the war to both Scandinavia and the Balkans. The Allies, Germany charged had "declared war on neutrals."

Britain refused to waver, however, and said the mines and ships would stay in Norwegian waters where they were put. If the Norwegians sweep the mines away, new ones will be sown. If the Germans try to remove them, "the British navy will welcome an engagement."

Counter-Action Hinted

German officials retorted that the Reich would "accept the Allied challenge." Berlin officials predicted that a German counter-action "could be taken for granted."

Furthermore, Berlin said, mere protests by Norway will not satisfy Berlin.

Other Scandinavian nations quaked at what the future may hold.

TRUCK FAILS TO MAKE CURVE; BRIDGE DAMAGED

Driving a truck for the David Davies Packing Company, Henry W. Taylor, 28, Columbus, failed to turn fast enough when he came to a bend in the road as it leads to the bridge over Yellowbud Creek on the Kinderhook Road, rammed into the end of the bridge at 5 a. m. Monday sending the cab and engine section of the truck into the creek while the trailer section remained on the damaged bridge. The force with which he hit the bridge at a high rate of speed sent part of the structure sagging into the water.

No stock was in the truck at the time and Taylor came out of the cab unscratched and without injury.

VOTERS OF TWO STATES DECIDE VITAL ISSUES

President And Garner Vie In Illinois; Nebraska Ballot Important

WASHINGTON, April 8—While the Illinois and Nebraska presidential primaries Tuesday are capturing popular interest, national politicians today are awaiting the congressional elections in Nebraska's first district for a hint of the 1940 trend.

This special election, to be held tomorrow in a farm belt area blanketing the city of Lincoln, may presage the outcome of next November's national contest. The district has been a barometer of national balloting for the last decade. The "first Nebraska" went overwhelmingly Democratic in 1930, when the Democrats captured the house. It matched the Roosevelt landslide of 1932. It remained faithfully Democratic in 1934 and 1936 but, two years ago, it slipped quietly into the G. O. P. column as the Republicans began their comeback march. An independent candidate aided the Republican victory.

On Tuesday, J. Hyde Sweet, Republican editor, will try to keep it in the G. O. P. column against Charles Dafeo, former Democratic state senator, in a race for the seat held by the late George H. Heinke, Republican. The outcome may well provide a portent of the 1940 presidential results.

The presidential primaries in Illinois and Nebraska attract interest because of the personalities involved and their effect on the nominating conventions. In Illinois, Vice President John N. Garner is contesting President Roosevelt for 58 delegates. Racket-buster Thomas E. Dewey will win the Republican primary because he is unopposed.

CHARGES OF KIDNAPING QUASHED AGAINST YOUTH

PAULDING, April 8—Dismissal of three kidnaping indictments against Sylvester Wisda, 21, of nearby Sherwood, today left his case apparently closed.

Wisda was indicted on three counts after Oscar Ball shot and killed Louis Strake, reputed accomplice of Wisda in the asserted kidnaping of Ball's 19-year-old son, Richard.

Judge Mervin L. Day dismissed the indictments on request of Prosecutor Wilmer D. Rekeeweg. Rekeeweg moved for dismissal after Wisda and young Ball submitted to the detector tests in Toledo. Rekeeweg said the tests "threw a different light on the case."

Attorney George Barnett, representing Wisda, expressed surprise when informed the indictments had been quashed. He said it was his understanding the detector tests would be kept secret temporarily.

Arthur R. Cline, Toledo attorney representing Strake's family, has been unsuccessful in his efforts to exhume Strake's body. He claimed he has uncovered new evidence.

The asserted kidnaping and the shooting occurred on January 27. Strake was shot while he assertedly held a gun at Richard's temple. The case has been replete with unexplained angles.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO MAINE MEMBER OF HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 8—Rep. Clyde H. Smith (R) Me., died today after suffering a severe heart attack four days ago.

Smith, who was 63 years old, was elected to the house in 1936. His home is in Skowhegan, Me.

One of the three Maine representatives—all are Republican—Smith was a member of the House Labor Committee, which recently voted to amend the Wagner Labor Act, and enlarge the National Labor Relations Board. Smith was known as a "labor man."

Smith was born on a farm in Somerset County, Me., and moved to Showhegan in 1905. He was engaged in the automobile business early in life, but spent most of his years in public service, holding a number of state and local posts.

He served eight years as a state representative, and from 1928 to 1932 was chairman of the state highway commission.

He was married 10 years ago to Margaret Chase.

Berlin Reiterates Allies In New "Onslaught" To Involve Neutrals

wegian territorial waters, hunting for German merchant ships, presumably.

The German government immediately contacted the Norwegian government for discussions regarding the next move.

It was understood in Berlin that Germany regards the "first essential step" to be establishment of a Norwegian counter-action against the Allies.

But, it was stated, mere protests to London and Paris will not satisfy Berlin.

Secondly, Germany intends to launch an energetic campaign designed to brand the Allies' action in Rumania and in Scandinavian waters as "final definite proof" that the Allies are "ravaging and abolishing neutrality rights."

Procedure Assailed

In addition, it was made clear, the Reich expects neutral European nations to take note of what is going on and to refuse to "submit meekly to any such procedure."

Authorities said that, summed up, Germany is seizing on the moment for a campaign designed to compel the neutrals to swing against the Allies.

Officials said that the Allied move in Scandinavian waters failed to surprise Germany, which had expected such a development for some weeks.

For this reason, they added, it could be assumed that Germany's counter-blow already has been mapped out. Observers expressed the opinion that neutral nations are now more than ever "caught in the middle" and probably will be the chief sufferers.

It was not believed in Berlin that Germany will intervene directly in Norway, but there seemed to be no doubt that clashes will occur sooner or later in Norwegian territorial waters.

Interruption of German shipping in Norwegian territorial waters is less important now than it was a month ago since other waterways over which the Reich can obtain iron ore have now thawed, opening them to navigation.

But German officials stressed the principle involved and the German government made it clear it would reject as a "mere alibi" the Allied claim that the Germans were sinking neutral ships within territorial waters or were not entitled to use territorial waters for iron ore transports.

Weakness Admitted

"The acts of the Allies betray their desperation and weakness," a spokesman declared. "They are nervous and ready to commit any violation while telling the world at the same time that they are fighting to protect neutral nations, democracy and liberty."

Official irritation over the Scandinavian situation and announcement of the alleged British Danube Rivers sabotage plot followed a claim by the high command that seven Allied war planes had been destroyed in a series of air combats. Loss of three German aircraft was admitted.

ALLIES ACT TO BLOCK SUPPLY SHIPS OF NAZIS

Patrols clashed in no man's land while planes battled overhead.

In the Shetland Islands an air raid alarm sent British pursuit planes skyward to hunt Nazi raiders. And in London the British government published a time table—which Berlin called "laughable nonsense"—purporting to show German plans for complete conquest of Europe by 1948.

Best Interests Served

The British and French asserted their move in sowing mines in Norwegian waters was in the best interests of neutral nations as well as of themselves.

This action, aimed at tightening the blockade of Germany to the stragulation point, aroused an immediate furor in Scandinavia, and even led to hints of a possible Anglo-German naval battle.

British and French warships jointly laid the mines at dawn at three points of the Norwegian coast, warning that ships entering the stipulated areas would do so at their "own peril."

Reports reaching London said the Norwegian premier and foreign minister held a morning conference, calling in the Anglo-French envoys for what must have been a heated session. The Norwegian parliamentary foreign affairs committee also met.

Berlin responded with loud threats and warnings; "Peace in Scandinavia is in utmost danger... Germany will not sit still waiting for the Allies to put pressure on Scandinavian countries. Germany is ready to strike quickly in an unexpected day."

In London also Britain prepared another move to cut off Germany from sources of vital war supplies. This took the form of a conference among British envoys to the Balkan states, Russia, Italy and Turkey with the object of drawing up plans for stern economic warfare in southeastern Europe.

GLAD TO TELL ANYBODY WHAT VENDOL DID SAYS OFFICER

Declares it has been years since felt so good till finding the right medicine. Relieved constipation, stomach upsets and other troubles.

In scores of instances Vendol has won public acclaim by the best and most substantial residents of this state, for bringing back the joy of living after months, and sometimes years, of complaints that robbed them of glowing health. An example of how Vendol helped such a person is the public statement from Mr. H. A. Welsh of route 6, Ashland, Ohio, a Guard Officer at the Ohio State Reformatory who says,

"Constipation kept me feeling so bad that neither mealtime nor bedtime were pleasures to look forward to. This constipated condition kept my stomach upset with acid indigestion and most everything lay heavy, turned to sour gas and lifted up to my throat. Felt like there was a lump on my chest and I often had sick headaches and was so nervous that I couldn't get to sleep for hours after going to bed. Next morning I'd feel limp as a rag with no energy to go to work.

"Sometimes I'd feel bilious with spots dancing before my eyes and when I stooped over I'd have to steady myself. I had little pimples on my skin.

"About three weeks on Vendol have made a big change in all this because it relieved my constipation completely; then all the other troubles seemed to fade away. It has been years since I've felt so good and I can hardly find words to thank Vendol for the grand change and relief it brought."

Give Vendol a chance to relieve your troubles. You can rely upon this famous medicine that has already helped so many people right here in our home town.

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists everywhere and is highly recommended here by Mykrantz Drug Store.

MCCRADY CHECKS STORY OF ROBBERY SUSPECT

Police Chief William McCrady traveled to Marion Saturday to check the story of Roy Gregory, Marion, who claims that he and two other men robbed a Circleville grocery store on Friday, March 22.

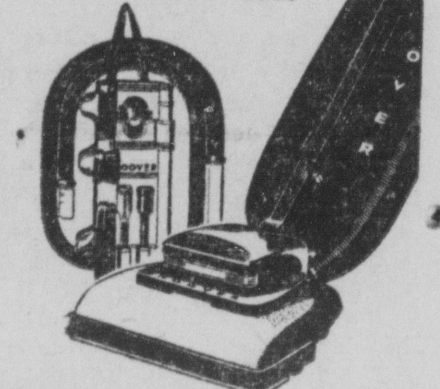

The robbery had never been reported to the Circleville police, and after calling most of the merchants in the city, no robbery on that date was revealed.

Gregory, who is being held by the Marion police for a series of robberies there, insisted that his story is true. Chief McCrady, because of lack of confirmation of the story in Circleville, placed no charges against him.

DIES DECLARES RED ACTIVITIES IN NAVY GAINING

More Communists Finding Jobs In Construction Yards Of Nation

EVIDENCE IS OBTAINED

50 At Work In Philadelphia Area; Californian Asks Immediate Action

WASHINGTON, April 8—Evidence that the Communist Party is increasing its activities in United States navy yards is in the hands of his committee, Chairman Dies (D) Tex., disclosed today.

"It is a serious situation, especially serious in troubled times like these," the Texan declared. "We intend to get to the bottom of it—find out just who the navy Communists are and exactly what they are doing."

Dies said he had "information which I consider reliable" that there are more than 50 Communist party members working in the Philadelphia navy yard, and that similar "fraction memberships" exist in other yards.

"While the numbers are not great, they seem to be on the increase," Dies declared. "And a small minority of Communists usually wields a great influence in any group because of their solidarity and obedience to the 'party line'." Rep. Voorhis (D) Calif., a committee member who comes from the "navy town" of Los Angeles, supported the chairman with a plea for a thorough investigation.

Purpose Sought

"We should find out all about it," he declared. "If the Communists are organizing in any branch of the service, there must be some purpose behind it, and the people ought to know what that purpose is."

The committee will swing into this phase of its investigation when it calls Carl Reeve, Philadelphia Communist secretary who was subpoenaed when the party records were seized in that city.

While the committee previously has studied Communism in the navy, Dies said that with the seizure of the Philadelphia records he obtained for the first time "concrete and detailed evidence."

Among the documents is a leaflet bearing the superscription "Communist Party, Unit, Philadelphia Navy Yard." The committee, it was learned, will seek to learn the names of members in this unit.

Last night, Dies said he would ask the administration to support proposed legislation to require filing of names of all foreign-affiliated organizations, with membership lists. He predicted public sentiment would force its passage.

Raids Protested

At the same time, the committee's recent raids on Communist Party offices were condemned by the American Civil Liberties Union, which announced it would aid in defending Communists cited for contempt because they refused to answer committee questions.

Does said the committee's drive to round up nearly 100 Communist and German-American Bund officials for questioning would continue.

LIGHTS BLIND MOTORIST; AUTO HITS PARKED CAR

Blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile, John Clellan, Ashville, ran his car into that of Albert J. Webb, Chillicothe, as he was parked on North Court Street just north of Pleasant Street at 8:10 p. m. Saturday, police reported.

Clellan was driving south on Court Street and said that he failed to see the Webb car because it had no tail light. He told police also that he could not notice the parked car in the glare of the oncoming automobile. Both cars sustained fender damage.

Moon Blots the Sun, And Clouds Obliterate All

Circleville saw a total eclipse Sunday afternoon and evening. Not only did the moon blot out the sun, but the clouds and the rain blot out both the heavenly orbs and the astronomical show was a complete "washout."

The amateur weathermen, whether it be by aching bones or the old living room barometer, who may have smoked some glass for the ecliptic display, need not fret too much for it is bound to come again some other day. Only a much darker sky than is usual for a rainy day gave any hint of what was going on above the clouds. The eclipse, if it were visible,

FINAL CURTAIN COMES DOWN FOR FAMOUS ACTOR

NEW YORK, April 8—A generation which applauded him as a great matinee idol shortly after the turn of the century today mourned the death of William Faversham, 72, the British-born actor.

Faversham died at the home of friend in Bay Shore, N. Y., to which he went a week ago from an actors' home at East Islip where he had been a guest since 1937. He began his career in London in 1885 and came to New York two years later. His most famous role was that of Jim Carston in "The Squaw Man." His last stage appearance was in 1934.

The actor will be buried at Huntington at the side of his second wife, Julie Opp, one of his leading ladies. He leaves a widow, his third wife, the former Edith Campbell, and two sons.

TIMMONS ELECTED

Pryor B. Timmons, superintendent of Clarksburg schools, has been elected president of the Ross County Teachers' Association. Other officers are Roy E. Holmes, Kingston, vice president, and W. A. Lucas, Huntington Township, secretary.

FIVE KILLED, 13 HURT IN STORM

Louisiana Area Discloses 600 Homeless Following Sunday Tornado

AMITE, La., April 8—Five dead, 13 seriously injured and more than 600 homeless were counted today in the wake of a tornado which swept yesterday through this area, north and west of New Orleans. Damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

The dead were Carl Pittmann, 45, a county superintendent of schools; Mrs. Pittmann, 42; and Oliver Rudison, Negro, all killed at Amite; and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Guillie, drowned when a houseboat on which they were living capsized in Bayou Baratarie near Lafitte.

At least 50 houses were levelled in Amite, and a 6-block stretch of the business district was left in ruins. The Catholic and Methodist Churches were virtually destroyed. Ambulances and other aid were rushed from many nearby communities.

It was the second tornado disaster in the state in two weeks, five were killed where the previous tornado struck ten days ago ninety miles southwest of here.

SURVEY SHOWS BRITISHERS LIKE ANTHONY EDEN

LONDON, April 8—The London News Chronicle published a survey of popular opinion today in which Dominions Secretary Anthony Eden was the choice of 28 percent of those questioned to succeed Neville Chamberlain as British prime minister.

Others mentioned for the job: First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill—25 percent. Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax—7 percent.

Major Clement Attlee, laborite leader—6 percent. David Lloyd George, World War premier—5 percent.

ASHVILLE

Unless we have the date mixed up with a couple hundred other birth dates we have on file, Edward Dewey will be 79 years young Tuesday the 9th. But yesterday being Sunday, when there's not a whole lot to do except Sunday school and church attendance, we are guessing the family folk were most all in to have some extra eats with Dad and talk everything over in general. And we'll be seeing about it today yet and find out what happened. Ed is one of the few old-timers here who knows a lot about early Ashville. And while he may not be able to "stick on" until the one hundredth anniversary celebration of the incorporation of Ashville which is in 1980, we feel sure he'll do his best to ward it. These school kiddies out in the grades now, are already making plans how they'll be mayor, grand marshal and everything when this big celebration finally comes along.

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel above.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

WITH BOB SWANSON, it's always a slow-burning Camel. "That slower way of burning makes a big difference, I've found," says Bob. "Camels are milder—easy on my throat. They don't bother my nerves. They never tire my taste. And

GARNER PRIMARY LITERATURE
CHICAGO—The President and Jack Garner may be good personal friends in Washington, but out here in Illinois the latter's campaign managers are pulling no punches in the bitter fight for delegates.

They are socking the Roosevelt third-term ticket with everything in the arena, including the water bucket.

Chief Garner shillalah is a four-page leaflet that is the hottest piece of campaign literature seen in these parts in a long time. It fairly sizzles, and blasts the third term and leading New Dealers more scorchingly than anything the GOP has put out. Over 2,500,000 copies have been distributed in this state and 1,400,000 were used in Wisconsin.

Principal punch in the leaflet is a four-column inside layout under a big-type headline, "THE THIRD TERM—WHICH GROUP WILL YOU VOTE FOR?" Then follows a caption "FOR" under which appears this list:

"Harold Ickes, U. S. salary $15,000.
Henry Wallace, "	$15,000.
Harry Hopkins, "	$15,000.
Miss Perkins, "	$15,000.

Boss Hague of New Jersey, profits from politics — unknown.

Boss Nash of Chicago—profits from politics — unknown.

(Note—Bosses Pendergast of Kansas City and Jimmy Hines, patronage dispenser in Manhattan, are temporarily silent about a third term. They are doing their first terms in the penitentiary.)

"They and a horde of other job holders are riding the gravy train. It is a free ride and they will never get off unless we, the voters, put them off. They are for a third term, or a fourth, or a fifth."

Opposite this fusillade and under the caption "AGAINST" are four pictures—Washington, Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and Grover Cleveland. In addition are Coolidge's famous "I do not choose to run" statement and a quote from Jim Farley: "I place my country above the party."

Doctor's Reward Not Measured in Money

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TODAY I want to review briefly two new books on medical subjects.

The Medical Career, and Other Papers, by Harvey Cushing, (Little, Brown & Company, 1940).

"I read of a doctor who was summoned in the middle of the night to the bedside of a poor fellow whom he found apparently strangling to death. In the dim light of a coal-oil light held unsteadily by the dying man's wife he succeeded, by opening a large abscess in the back of the man's throat, in saving his life; and he thus describes his own reaction to this episode:

"Happy? As I drove homeward that night I doubt if even a Methodist evangelist who has just defrauded the devil of his legitimate prey by converting the wickedest man in town, or a criminal lawyer who has snatched a millionaire murderer from the gallows, could possibly feel more jubilant and uproarious. Incidentally, about six months later I collected four dollars for that job. I felt a little bit ashamed of accepting it, for I had already been so richly, so magnificently paid in the pleasure the experience gave me."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Thus that great humanist, the founder of physiological surgery, attested to his ultimate faith in the human needs of medical practice.

Ready, of course, he was to adapt all science to those ends:

"Röntgen could hardly have dreamed that his discovery would revolutionize our methods of diagnosis; the Curies that radium would prove to be an effective agent in combating certain kinds of malignant tumors; or Faraday that his alternating current would some day be utilized in place of the scalpel to make dissection a relatively bloodless procedure."

These excerpts from Dr. Harvey Cushing's lately published posthumous volume of essays remind us,

CONTRACT BRIDGE

THE CULPRIT ESCAPES
WHENEVER a psychic bid ad-dict gets away with an apparently impossible fine score on a deal, it encourages him to try more of the same. In the long run, it is highly questionable that he profits, in terms of net points, from the spectacular unorthodox tactics, but he undeniably gets something which the conservative bidder never can have in the same form—thrills. So perhaps he is pretty wise at that, for the main thing we all seek from the game is fun.

THE KILLER SPEAKS
RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
"YOU MUSTN'T come," I objected when Miss Markham volunteered to join the hunt for my kidnaper. "It would be too dangerous."

"Why?"

"He already has sent me a threat, warning me to keep off his trail. He delivered it at your house." I told her how the note had come through the window. "And I have reason to believe that a similar threat led to a suicide last night, so you see, he means business."

Her brown eyes were wide with alarm. "Bill, why didn't you tell me?"

"That was something for the police, not for you."

"But I am the sister of the man who was murdered."

"That's a cruel word. Are we even sure of it?"

"You mean, there's a chance it wasn't murder? It might have been—"

"I have no theory," I said hastily. "Theories are dangerous. Look at Belzer. Well, here's our cab. Will you reconsider?"

"No," she was firm.

"All right." To the driver I said, "The Rio Vista club."

He took the order without question. There was nothing strange in a young couple driving to the Rio Vista club at this late hour of the afternoon. The sun was near setting. It would soon be dinner time, and the club's diners, if not its liquors, were popular.

"What do you hope to discover at the club?" the girl asked me.

"I really don't know," I confessed, "but it is a place to begin. Belzer thought there was some connection between that boatman—the fellow who kidnaped me—and the operation of the club. He spoke of the possibility of a gang working there."

"It sounds fantastic."

"I know. But that fellow was waiting for someone in the garden. I'm sure of it. And if he was, he was waiting for someone who worked for the club or was a guest there. I would say it might have been the cook's helper he was waiting for, but Tony Pappini said the boy went home early. He was the one who committed suicide last night."

"How horrible!"

"That boatman is a potential killer. Even though he may not have murdered your brother, if we can hang the crime on him we'll be doing society a favor."

"So the first thing you want to do is to find out who he intended to meet?"

"That's right. We'll assume that he had no connection with your brother's death. What was he looking for?"

The girl bit her lips. "Suppose we are making a terrible mistake? Suppose this man had no more connection with my brother's death than Jerry Montcalm had?"

"I say—what difference does it make? He is a killer. He tried to kill me."

The girl nodded. "He must be the man we're looking for. He must! Whom shall we question?"

"I think we'd best start with the cook."

We arrived at the club at an hour when I would have expected to see a number of cars parked within the shrub encircled parking area on the north side of the peninsula, but there were only three cars.

"Looks like a quiet night," the taxi driver commented as he accepted his fare. "Quietest I've ever seen it here this time of the evening."

Louise was clutching my arm tightly as we climbed the wide steps. I knew what she was thinking. Not long ago her brother had climbed these steps, for the last time.

No one was in the dining room. A boy in uniform—I suppose he had been hired to replace the cook's helper—informed us there were sandwiches, if we wished to eat, but no dinner. "Sorry," he said. "The cook's ill. We're trying to get someone else, but I don't think we'll have much luck before 7 o'clock."

"Anything serious?" I asked, thinking it strange that the club would announce the sickness of the man who prepared its meals. It wouldn't tend to help business, to say the least.

"We don't know what it is," said the boy. "I think he's gone off his nut. They say he's been acting queer for a couple of days."

I remembered how he had burst into tears over Alfred's death. "Maybe he's upset about the—"

"The murder, sir? That's what I think. He'll snap out of it."

"Could we—see him?" Louise asked. Her fingers were clamping

still tighter on my arm as she voiced the question.

The boy looked undecided. His eyes wandered toward the stairs. "Guess it's all right. You friends of his?"

"Old friends," I lied.

"Well, the doctor said it's nothin' people can catch, so go on up and see him. Last room at the north end of the hall."

I hesitated. "Is the doctor with him?"

"No. The doctor hasn't got here yet. We telephoned, but he's on an emergency somewhere. He told us, on the phone, it's just a recurrence—I think that's what he said—of trouble Tony's had before."

"And so you're just letting Tony lie quiet for a while until the doctor gets here?"

"That's it. He gets awful excited. I hope you can take his mind off his troubles."

"But he's not violent?" Louise asked. I could sense the tightness in her throat, as though she was wondering—as I was—if Tony's illness could be caused by the fact that he was harboring some terrible secret, a secret we were about to uncover.

"Oh, no. You needn't be scared," the boy reassured her with a smile.

We mounted the steps without speaking. The upper hall already was in semi-darkness. No lights had been turned on.

There were no sounds, although transoms were open. There was no light in the transom above the door at the end of the hall. We approached it silently, our steps muffled by the thick carpet.

I was about to knock on the door when Louise restrained me. She put a finger to her lips and then leaned close to the panel, listening. "I hear someone breathing heavily," she whispered. "We really shouldn't be here without speaking to his doctor. Suppose he's seriously sick, and we—"

"This is no time to hesitate," I said. "Jerry's life may depend on what Tony Pappini can tell us." I knocked.

A piercing scream—the cry of a person in mortal terror—drove us back a step, clutching each other. On the other side of the door something crashed.

I lunged forward, knocking the door open. The bed was in wild disarray. The room was empty. Tony Pappini had vanished.

BRITAIN IS GRIEVED

IN view of a growing sharpness of temper arising lately between England and America, readers may be interested in this rather sorrowful but dignified statement in Britain's behalf by the liberal Manchester Guardian Weekly.

"We have to admit, of course," says the English paper, "the remarkably irascible character of some American comment. With one breath the Allies are assailed because they do not try to smash the Siegfried Line, and with the next they are abused because they try to tighten up the naval blockade. Their purchasing power in the United States is limited by law, but when they concentrate what resources are left to them on essential supplies there is a storm from the interests that are hurt."

"The Allies make an agreement to economize their forces; they are criticized because this may interfere with the old channels of trade. And so, through a score of issues, the game of making an uncomfortable best of both worlds goes on."

"We are pretty good at it ourselves, and we know from our own history how easily others who share the Anglo-Saxon habit of mind can be misled. For our part, we accept the inconsistencies with resignation, realizing that we can do nothing about them but having confidence that, whatever the vagaries, the influence of the United States will not be cast to weaken the great principles of government and civilization that we share with her."

THE CHILDREN'S BARD

ONE might expect a dramatic critic who has seen the greatest actors in the greatest plays to be bored at a children's production. Not so Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times when he recently saw a version of Shakespeare's "Tempest" performed by a group of children.

In the first place, the choice of play was sound, in Mr. Atkinson's opinion. "The Tempest" is imaginative, with unearthly characters, well suited to the innocence of children. "Things that trouble the adult mind a little become wholly enchanting when high, piping voices speak them and when the acting is artless and the grace is the natural plasticity of young bodies."

"Although all of us have probably heard the 'In a cowlship's bell I lie' verse more skilfully spoken," says Mr. Atkinson, "it seems superlatively lovely when a slender child speaks it sincerely as epilogue to a dancing performance." He found the whole production "strangely touching" and confessed to a "lump in the adult throat."

The performance must have been good. The young actors must have been wholly absorbed and sympathetic. It may be

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles P. Stewart

NEWS FROM Salt Lake City is to the effect that Utah's liberal Democrats are urging Representative Abe Murdock to oppose Senator William H. King for their party's nomination in the state's September primaries, as their next candidate for the upper congressional chamber.

Representative Murdock in Washington hasn't agreed yet to do it, but maybe he will.

That isn't the point, though. The point is that a press commentator, discussing the story, says Senator King has been in politics since he was 21, and has been consistently a conservative."

KING LIBERALISM

Now, I can understand this statement, as coming from a newspaperman whose recollection doesn't ante-date the New Deal era. He's misinformed, however, as to the pre-New Deal period. Any old-timer knows that Senator King hasn't been known as "consistently conservative." Much to the contrary. For a long time, until rather recently, Senator King was a Utah co-solider with Senator Reed Smoot. Smoot was a Republican and there wasn't any dispute that he was conservative.

In those days it was one of the puzzles of Washington how the same state, simultaneously, could have on Capitol Hill as hard-boiled an old-guardsmen as Reed Smoot and as enlightened a liberal as William H. King—and of different parties, too. If one could be elected, how could the other one be—by the same state's bunch of voters?

WHICH WAS WHICH?

I was nearly curious enough to go out to Utah to investigate, but I doubt that even the Mormons could have told me. It was just "one of those things!"—inexplicable.

I did consult Senator Smoot. "Oh, he said, 'King's a rampant radical.' That wasn't very explanatory."

I quizzed Senator King also. "It does seem queer," he confessed. "I believe there must be something personal and non-political about it. I own that it's inconsistent."

The fact remains that King, then, never for a minute questioned that he was a liberal. And Smoot would have had a fit if anybody had intimated that King was as conservative as good judgment required.

THE SCENE WAS CHANGED

Not only the scene changed. The rapidity with which it's done it in the last 10 years is confusing.

It seems only yesterday since I, as a capital correspondent, called on Senator George or Senator Bailey when I wanted a liberal interview. I even had to go as far as Senator Nye or Shipstead or Frazier to get anything liberal—not to mention radicalism.

Now conservatives are pretty liberal. Even Republican old-guardsmen are.

And Democrats (who used to think they were liberals) class as reactionaries on the present basis. And some Republicans are New Dealers.

A CASE IN POINT

And Utah is just a conspicuous case in point.

It presents an outstanding instance of an old-time liberal versus a new-time essentially liberal party.

It isn't Republican-Democratic. It isn't conservative-liberal. It splits four ways.

And it splits nationally. Who's Republican or Democratic? Who's liberal or conservative? The psychosis is what they call it—the psychosis.

Henryetta Williams And Evan Phillips Are Wed

Holy Name Church In Columbus Scene

Of interest to Circleville friends will be the announcement of the wedding of Miss Henryetta Williams of 350 Twentieth Avenue, Columbus, and Mr. Evan Phillips of 112 Sixteenth Avenue, son of Mrs. Nelle Phillips, North Scioto Street. Miss Williams is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. B. G. R. Williams of Greencastle, Ind.

The ceremony was performed Saturday, April 6, at 1 p. m. in the Holy Name Church, Columbus, with the Rev. Fr. Donahue officiating.

Miss Williams, a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority, attended the University of Wisconsin and was graduated from the College of Pharmacy at Ohio State University, Columbus.

Mr. Phillips, a senior in the Ohio State College of Pharmacy, is associated with the Harrington Pharmacy, Upper Arlington. He will be graduated in June.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McDuffie of Buffalo, N. Y., brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom, entertained the new Mr. and Mrs. Phillips at a luncheon at the Marmore, Columbus. Other guests at the wedding luncheon were Mrs. Phillips, mother of the bridegroom; Mrs. John Boggs and Miss Margaret Boggs, West Union Street, his aunt and cousin.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips went to housekeeping in their newly furnished apartment, 20 Indianola Court, North High Street.

Guest In Washington

Mrs. Eleanor W. Bisell of East Main Street left Saturday for Washington, D. C., where she plans to visit for several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Thomas J. Shannon, formerly Caroline Wolf-ley of Circleville.

Mrs. Bisell will attend the annual Japanese Cherry Blossom festival April 8-12. She will represent the Colonel William Ball Chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists at the National Assembly April 20 in Washington City.

Mrs. Bisell also will attend the sessions of the National Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution when it convenes in Washington. She is a member of the Eugenia Washington chapter, D. A. R., of that city.

Waldelich-Calvert Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Calvert, 1479 South High Street, Columbus, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Mr. Kenneth Waldelich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Waldelich of Washington Township.

The ceremony was performed March 9 by the Rev. Paul Kaefler in the parsonage of the St. Paul's Evangelical Church of Columbus. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson attended the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldelich are residing at 1485 South High Street, Columbus. Mr. Waldelich is employed at the Borderland Casket company.

Planting Gladioli Cormels

The small cormels saved when the gladioli were dug up last fall should be planted separately in the vegetable or cutting garden this year.

Since the young shoots from the cormels will look like coarse grass, one should place a stake at the head of each row of cormels, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Plant the cormels 2 inches deep in a trench, as illustrated, just as you would garden peas.

The cormels are protected by a hard shell, which makes it difficult for moisture to penetrate them. Therefore, to facilitate germination,

When crocuses are planted in the lawn, do not cut off the tops with the lawn mower until the foliage shows signs of shriveling.

Weeds are more easily destroyed now before they become well established. Hoe them out and make sure that you get all of the roots in the process.

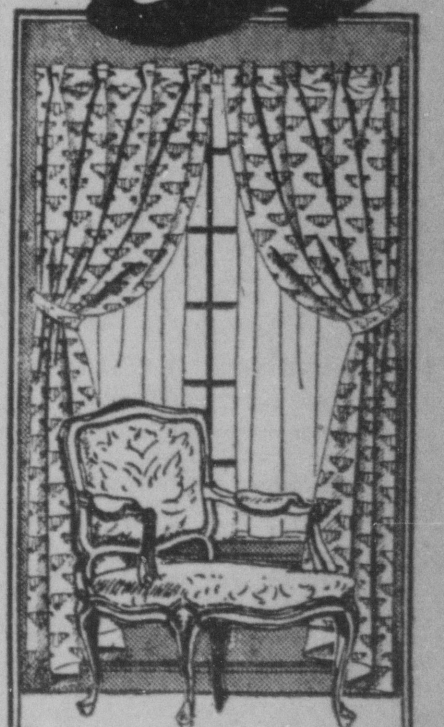

Many of the annuals should be pinched back when only a few inches high, to induce growth of side shoots.

Narcissi, hyacinths, tulips and lilies received as Easter gifts should be saved for planting out in the garden. Water such plants moderately until the foliage dries, then plant them outside and next spring they will reward you with blooms.

Divide large clumps of Shasta daisies, phlox, hardy asters and chrysanthemums as soon as growth starts. Fertilize them well after they have taken hold again.

To keep cats and dogs away from evergreens, spray the plantings with a diluted solution of nicotine sulphate. The spray is harmless to the shrubbery.

"There's a Lot of Misinformation About Advertising Costs . . ."

"I am for any movement that brings down the cost of living for the public. But I am opposed to being fooled by anyone—particularly by those who accuse me of being duped by someone else. I like facts! So, having heard so much about what I have to pay for the advertising of things I buy—how much of my money pays the advertising costs of goods—I looked into the matter, and I got a lot of facts. Here are some: For oranges selling at 25c a dozen, the advertising cost was 3/10c. For cigarettes selling at 13c a pack, the advertising cost was 1/2 of one cent. For an automobile selling for $1000.00, the advertising cost was about $12.00. For a breakfast food selling at 15c a package, the advertising cost was 1/4 of a cent. The average cost of advertising for a dozen different kinds of products I discovered to be under 2% of the selling price to the public . . . Advertising has increased the distribution of goods, and has made mass production practical by making mass selling possible. It has thus increased competition, forced the quality of the products higher, and brought selling prices to the public down lower . . . I, therefore, reject the criticism of those who condemn Business for spending so much on advertising. I reject the criticism because it is misinformed and deceptive. Business does not spend proportionately high amounts for advertising; it spends proportionately little—and what it spends enables me to get better goods for less money."

At The Cliftona

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND, the girl discovered by Max Reinhardt in his Hollywood Bowl production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," portrays the role of Melanie Wilkes, the patient loyal and devoted wife of Ashley O'Hara, in David O. Selznick's Technicolor production of "Gone with the Wind," at the Cliftona. Her rise to stardom is one of Hollywood's most unusual success stories.

During the summer of 1935, Miss de Havilland, then living in Saratoga, California, made her bid for an acting career by getting a job as second understudy in the role of "Hermia" in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Both the star and the first understudy were forced to leave the production before opening night. Producer-director Reinhardt saw in the second understudy potential star material. He gave Miss de Havilland the role.

RAINS AND PRINGLE

"Payment Deferred," the remarkable drama in which Charles Laughton created his first American sensation, will be the vehicle for Claude Rains and Aileen Pringle when the two stars appear Wednesday April 10, 9 p. m. in the CBS Star Theatre's version of the film.

Rains will portray Laughton's original role, that of William Marlowe, a bank clerk, who fearing his creditors, kills his nephew who has just arrived, a stranger in London. The boy is buried in Marlowe's garden. Thereafter, a prey to his conscience, Marlowe spends the money he has inherited through committing the crime but tragic circumstances betray him and his wife dies by her own hand, a victim of poison.

Doyle Names Yankees Makes Reds, Cards Even

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, April 8 — Jack Doyle, Broadway's sports oracle, has returned from his annual tour of the spring training camps, bringing with him his betting odds on the impending pennant races.

Jack has been doing this sort of thing for 30 years. He can and does make book on any and every sports event but he is more interested in baseball than anything else and knows that sport better than any other.

"The Yanks," said Jack today, "are still tops in my book. It's very easy for Connie Mack or anybody else to predict they can't win their fifth straight pennant but I'll bet Connie or anybody else please tell me what the other teams have to beat them with?"

"As for the National League, it looks more scrambled than ever and for the first time in my life I've been unable to install a clear-cut favorite."

Here's Jack's book on the teams, straight, place and show:

American League
New York	7/20	Chicago	15/1
Boston	9/2	Wash.	30/1
Cleveland	8/2	Phila.	50/1
Detroit	10/1	St. Louis	100/1
National League
Cinc.	11/5	New York	7/1
St. Louis	11/1	Pitts.	10/1
Brooklyn	5/1	Boston	50/1
Chicago	5/1	Phila.	100/1

The best-looking bet on the board, Jack admits, is Cleveland to run third at 7 to 10.

"I could have made up this book almost as well last fall," said the sports sage, "but I wanted to see if any of the teams had uncovered any new phenoms to make me change my opinion."

"What I saw convinced me the Yanks are stronger than ever. They've got theirs; the others have theirs to get."

"I give six teams a chance to make the first division in the National and any one of the six might win the pennant without causing too much surprise. Not one team in the league is perfectly balanced. They all have their weak spots and under such conditions anything can happen."

"The one sure bet is that there will be more betting on the National League than ever before. Wanta bet?"

SOUTHPAW STAR GIVES NEW HOPE TO REDLEG FANS

CINCINNATI, April 8 — One week from tomorrow the Cincinnati Reds set out in defense of their national league baseball pennant, opening at Crosley Field against the Chicago Cubs.

And, as the initial tilt neared, there was considerable speculation in this rabid baseball town as to whether the champs will be able to duplicate last year's successful venture.

During the spring training season, the Reds have not been impressive, winning approximately one-third of "grapefruit league" encounters.

A bright light in an otherwise mediocre picture was the work Saturday of Johnny Vander Meer, of no run, no hit fame. Telling the last four innings against the Boston Red Sox, Johnny allowed only one run and whiffed five batters. This indicated, perhaps that Johnny's ailing flipper is again normal.

Every one in Cincinnati believes the Reds should be stronger this year than they were in 1939. But performance in the southern climes refute that belief.

The left field spot is still a problem. Mike McCormick and Vince DiMaggio have been alternating in that garden. But neither has been overly "hot." Waiting around to step into the gap in the event McCormick or DiMaggio wind up on the bench is the veteran Wally Berger who is dependable if nothing else.

At any rate, Crosley Field on April 16 will be jammed with loyal fans who string along with their favorites—win or lose.

FELLER FACES GIANTS

ANDERSON S. C., April 8 — Bobby Feller will pitch for the Cleveland Indians today they attempt to even their training camp series with the New York Giants at five games each. The Giants won 3 to 2 against the Indians at Gadsden, Ala., yesterday and took a 5 to 4 lead in the series.

demie of "suicides" among the city's wealthy men. The evidence leads him to believe he's on the trail of fiendish killers. Dangerous adventure awaits him. In support are Vickie Vola as the D. A.'s secretary and Len Doyle as Harrington, his aide.

"Breezin' Along," now heard on the NBC-Blue network Wednesdays at 8 p. m. E. S. T., will be switched to CBS on Sundays at 8:30 p. m., starting May 5. Talent includes Johnny Green's orchestra, Beverly and a singing chorus under the direction of Ray Bloch.

Demaret Wins

JIMMY Demaret, above, couldn't repress this smile of hope as he won the annual Masters golf tournament at Augusta, Ga.

DEMARET RESTS BEFORE TEST IN NATIONAL OPEN

By Lester Rice

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8—Jimmy Demaret, the "tough cookie" of Texas, was airplaning toward his faraway home town of Houston today, his pockets loaded with the $1,500 he won in the Masters Tournament but it wasn't to be long before he headed north again for the Goodall round-robin match-play tournament of Long Island early in May.

Demaret, the insouciant stylist, who beat the best of the country's crackerjack professionals and amateurs by four strokes with a four-round score of 280, wasn't sure that he would remain in the East long enough to play in the Metropolitan Open at Bloomfield, N. J., but was eager to match his woods and irons against the celebrated colleagues who are to be invited to take part in the Goodall merry-go-round.

"I'd like to remain over for the Metropolitan," Demaret said before taking off for Texas, "but I think I ought to rest up a bit before going on to Cleveland for the National Open. Playing as much as I have been all winter I would want to have my keenness blunted before taking up at Canterbury."

Incidentally, Ralph Guldahl, whom Demaret succeeded as the master craftsman at Augusta, will turn down a bid to the Goodall party and concentrate on the National Open. The slope-shouldered Texan who was best man at the game's biggest show in 1937 and 1938, is a firm believer in preparedness and went directly from Augusta to Cleveland to begin practice.

PATSY ENDS TROUBLES?

COLUMBUS, April 8 — The marital difficulties of Patsy Peroni, Canton heavyweight boxer, may be settled by a conference between his and his wife's lawyers tomorrow, clearing the way for a return bout with Jack "Buddy" Walker, Ohio heavy champ. The two fought to a rousing ten-round draw a week ago in the best scrap seen in Columbus in many a year.

The oldest animal in the world is thought to be the Galapagos turtle, which is estimated to live to the age of 200 years.

PARALLEL PARKING BEGINS ON MAIN STREET DESPITE LACK OF MARKING

MOTORISTS PUT AUTOS AGAINST CURB UNDER LAW

Safety Department Requests Cooperation Until Signs Can Be Provided

"STOP" SYSTEM REVISED

New Sidewalk Repair Plans To Get Started In Early Summer

Circleville's Main Street parallel parking program got under way Monday although the safety department's plan to paint street signs during the week end was washed out by rain that started to fall just as all equipment was ready for the painting to start.

Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann and Traffic Patrolman Miller Fissell asked Monday that motorists cooperate by parallel parking on Main Street until the thoroughfare can be properly marked.

Drivers who went into the downtown district early Monday started to parallel park despite the fact that there were no signs present to guide them. Only a few cars were parked during the morning and the safety department had these straightened out before any complication arose.

Because of the difficulty of painting the streets and maintaining traffic at the same time, the safety department plans to try its painting program again next Sunday morning starting as early as possible.

Stop Streets Marked

At the same time that the parallel parking ordinance started, a new series of stop and through streets became effective. Motorists are asked to exercise care since several streets that have been classed as "through" highways are now "stop" streets. All have been well marked.

The safety department is trying to "educate" motorists concerning the new traffic laws by issuing pamphlets containing the law as voted by council. About 1,500 pamphlets have been distributed in filling stations and other places where motorists gather.

Sign-Up To Start For WPA Sidewalk

With April 30 listed as the deadline for persons to announce participation in the Circleville WPA sidewalk, curb and gutter program for 1940, George Crum, employed by the city as a solicitor, started to work Monday to line up properties which will be improved during the spring and summer.

Mr. Crum, an engineer, pointed out that all interested persons must have expressed themselves prior to April 30 at which time the project will be made up and sent to WPA officials in Columbus for approval. No properties will be accepted after April 30, Crum said.

The price for repairs to the property owner will be nine cents a square foot for sidewalks and 40 cents a lineal foot for curbing and gutters.

The sidewalk program is being worked up to coincide with the completion of the Atwater Avenue improvement in the north end of Circleville. It is hoped that the sidewalk job can be started when the Atwater work ends, the WPA men being transferred from one job to the other.

Persons interested in the sidewalk improvement should contact Crum at his home or call at city hall.

FLAX ON GOLF COURSE

LONDON—The famous golf course at Portadown, County Armagh, will shortly be used for growing flax. Thirty acres of ground, covering the first nine holes, are to be ploughed next month under the "Grow More Food" campaign. The remaining nine holes are expected to be ploughed under later.

Chief Wise Says Volunteers Fail To Appear Despite Definite Plan

The initial run finally came to the new Township Volunteer Fire Truck Saturday when a blaze was reported on the farm of W. G. Graham on Warpath Road, six miles east of Orient.

Breaking out in the farthest from Circleville of the nine townships in the association, the call proved the first true tests of the equipment. Water had to be pumped from a nearby creek to wet down the burning strawstack and the adjacent barns. The blaze was limited to the strawstack and the reported damage of $20 was covered by Hummel and Plum insurance.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise was at the scene 25 minutes after the call was received. He returned to Circleville after he was certain that the fire had burned itself out.

Under the arrangement between the fire department and the Township Volunteer Fire Protective Association, which purchased the truck, only one Circleville fireman is to take the truck and operate it at the scene of the fire. The township trustees are to notify the volunteers in their township of the location of the fire and they, in turn, are to appear with milk cans filled with water to supplement the trucks tanks.

Chief Wise reported that no volunteers arrived and hose had to be stretched to draw water from a nearby creek, but the truck's

THOMAS TO RUN AGAIN FOR POST IN WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 8—For the fourth time Norman Thomas, 55-year-old New Yorker who was born in Marion, Ohio—President Harding's birthplace—will run for president as the candidate of the National Socialist Party.

Thomas was chosen by the Socialist convention, meeting in the capital, yesterday. For his running mate the convention named Maynard Kruger, associate professor of economics at the University of Chicago. Kruger will be 35 years old, the legal minimum for holding the vice-presidency, next January 16, just four four days before inauguration.

YOUNG FLIERS DIE IN CRASH

Planes Collide On Way Back To Hangars After Pleasure Cruise

SIDNEY, O., April 8—A mid-air plane crash that killed Robert E. Shrader, 28, of Dayton, and Jack Whitmer, 19, of Tippecanoe City, pilots of the low-powered training ships, was being investigated today by County authorities and the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Witnesses said both ships were flying south in a drizzling rain when one plane appeared to swoop down on the other.

Whitmer's ship, with a wing sheared off, crashed only 30 feet from the farm home of Fred Boyer, a half-mile west of Anna. Shrader's craft crashed in flames on the same farm.

The two flyers were returning to their Dayton hangar after a flight to Lima and Greenville. The pilots, who had often flown together, were accredited with 35 hours flying time and were possessors of solo flight certificates, which grant privileges above those given to students.

CHASTENED HERO

George A. De Cottes of the Capitol Police Force will vouch for the fact that a patrolman's lot is not a happy one.

De Cottes is the handsome young cop who singlehandedly captured a gunman who had held up a liquor store. On his way home from work and unarmed, he chased the bandit into the basement of an apartment house and overpowered him. The daring exploit won De Cottes a lot of public commendation—but not from his superiors.

Reporting for work the next morning he was met by a sour-faced sergeant who informed him that "the boss" was very much displeased by his "behavior" the night before.

"But why?" gasped De Cottes. "I risked my life to uphold the law. That might have bumped me off."

"That's beside the point," snapped the sergeant. "The boss is sore because you wore your uniform home. You had no business to do that. You know that's against regulations."

Note—Six feet tall, sandy-haired and 27, De Cottes is from Jacksonville, Fla., where he studied law, has a wife and child and is ambitious to be a G-man.

Trucker Exonerated After Investigation Of Route
22 Accident

Miss Ada G. Lutz, 49, injured last Thursday afternoon when she stepped into the path of a heavily-laden truck, died in Berger Hospital Sunday at 12:05 a. m. Miss Lutz suffered from a fractured skull. She had remained in a semi-conscious condition since the mishap that happened in front of the Clinton Stout home, Washington Township, when a gust of wind jerked an empty egg basket from her hand and she started to chase it across Route 22.

Miss Lutz was struck by the vehicle driven west by Lloyd Campbell of Newark who was hauling paper wood to Chillicothe for B. H. Collins of Stoutville. Investigating authorities exonerated the trucker who had slowed his vehicle almost to a stop before it struck Miss Lutz.

Miss Lutz was a native of Salt Creek Township, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Lutz. She had been employed as a housekeeper at the Clinton Stout residence.

Surviving are her mother; a half-brother and three half-sisters. The funeral will be Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Albaugh Co. Chapel, the Rev. Martin Wenrich of Stoutville officiating with burial in Whisler Cemetery. Pall bearers will include Lloyd Lutz, Earl Hoffman, Earl Stout and Clinton Stout.

JOCK WHITNEY'S WIFE IN RENO FOR DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., April 8 — Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Altemus Whitney was in residence at Reno today for the admitted purpose of divorcing John Hay (Jock) Whitney, millionaire sportsman and movie executive.

In Reno last month for a motion picture premiere, Mrs. Whitney then denied divorce rumors. At that time, she was seen constantly in the company of Actor Bruce Cabot.

However, she returned to the divorce capital by automobile, accompanied by her four dogs, and after renting quarters in the fashionable Riverside Hotel, admitted that on completion of the required six weeks' residence she would seek to sever her marital bond with the wealthy Whitney, whom she wed in Philadelphia in 1931.

Mystery Attack

REFUSING to tell police his motive, George Davis, 25, was held by Chicora, Pa., police who charge he threw cleaning fluid on his mother, Mrs. Emma Moore, as she lay injured in bed, and then attempted to burn her to death. Moore then, police said, attacked Mrs. Moore's nurse, Miss Ethel O'Bryan, with a hatchet when she attempted to put out the flames. Miss O'Bryan may have sustained a fractured skull.

WOMAN, 24, WHO SLEW ATHLETE, ESCAPE PRISON

ODESSA, Tex., April 8 — Isabelle Messmer, 24-year-old New Jersey woman under a three-year sentence for the murder of Buford Armstrong, escaped from the Actor County jail, it was discovered this morning.

Police advanced the theory that she had thrown the lever on her cell door when the officer who gave the woman her support forgot to lock the lever box. She apparently walked down the hallway to a window and climbed down three floors on lattice work on the outside wall of the building.

The woman was found guilty of slaying Armstrong, a former player on the House of David semi-pro baseball team, at an Odessa tourist camp March 31, 1939. After being sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary, she asked for a new trial. This motion was denied Saturday and her attorney filed notice of appeal.

Clothes missing from the wardrobe at the jail indicated she was wearing a brown blouse, tan oxfords, brown slacks and a black tank when she escaped.

She was captured in St. Louis last year and returned to Odessa for the trial.

BIGAMIST CLAIMS THAT HE CAN'T RESIST BEAUTY

NEW YORK, April 8 — "I just can't resist a pretty woman."

This, police asserted today, was the explanation given by Donald M. Young, 27, an electric welder who gave his address as Reading, Pa., when arraigned on charges of bigamy for allegedly having three wives.

Young was arraigned on the complaint of Rose Marie Dunn, 25, whom he married last August. Police said he also had two other wives, Rose Malfis, 25, of Brooklyn, and Gladys Corroda, 23, of the Bronx.

MOVE TO BLOCK SUPPLIES FROM BLACK SEA HIT

Berlin Reiterates Allies
In New "Onslaught" To Involve Neutrals

BARGE SINKING PLANNED

Mine Sowing In Norway's
Waters Not Surprising
To Official Circles

BERLIN, April 8 — Sowing of mines in Norwegian territorial waters by Anglo-French warships and an alleged British plot to block and sabotage the Danubian River were drummed up by German authorities today as an allied "onslaught" to force neutral nations into the European war.

German officials denounced the Anglo-French mine-sowing activities as an allied "declaration of war on neutrals."

At the same time, they declared a British plan to block Danubian River traffic routes from the Black Sea to the Reich had been frustrated with a discovery of a plot to dynamite and sink heavy canal barges lengthwise across the river at the iron gate at the triangle formed by the Rumanian-Hungarian-Yugoslavian borders.

Angry German authorities said Germany would "accept the Anglo-French challenge." One spokesman declared:

"At present we are watching the Allied abolition of international neutrality rights.

"We are determined in every way to reserve all our rights of action."

Part of Major Plot

German officials claimed openly that the Danubian sabotage plot and the mine-laying episode, which caused consternation throughout Scandinavia, were part of a vast Allied attempt to spread the war throughout Europe.

Authentic German quarters refused, however, to answer questions as to whether the Reich will stick to its policy—religiously adhered to so far—of refusing to be provoked into extension of the conflict to the North or Southeast. Nevertheless, it was made clear that a counter-stroke of some sort by Germany will follow the Allied mine-laying move.

What form it will take was not divulged, but that it will happen, officials said, "can be taken for granted."

Information reached Berlin that the British and French war vessels completed the mine-sowing operation at 5 a. m. and that Allied warships are now patrolling Norway.

BERLIN DOESN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH TARS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8 — Uncertainty again surrounded the future of some 450 German sailors at Angel Island immigration station today following the disclosure that 35 of their fellow seamen from the scuttled Nazi liner Columbus have been removed by British authorities at Gibraltar from the Italian motorship Fella.

The 35 seamen, older members of the Columbus crew en route back to Germany, sailed from San Francisco for Genoa, Italy, February 29. It was estimated the Fella reached Gibraltar April 2 or 3.

The Columbus, a once proud Nazi luxury liner, was scuttled by her crew in the Atlantic several months ago when intercepted by a British destroyer. Her 521 crew members were taken to New York, and thence by train to the Angel Island immigration station on San Francisco Bay.

Sixteen days after the 35 sailed on the Fella, 14 more, also not of military age, left on another Italian motorship, the Rialto. A third group of 14 sailed March 27 for Siberia on the liner Tatuta Maru.

Anti-Lynching Question Threat To Adjournment

WASHINGTON, April 8 — Administration leaders set in motion today a program to bring about adjournment of congress by June 1. The anti-lynching bill, hardly legislative perennial, provided the major threat to June 1 adjournment. Leaders' strategy was aimed at preventing a prolonged fight over this measure.

Methods employed were simple. Senate leaders laid down a working schedule devised to prevent any "dull spots" or an opportunity for anti-lynching legislation proponents to bring their bill to the floor. They felt that if they could stave off a battle over anti-lynching until mid-May, supporters would abandon their efforts when it was seen that the certain filibuster ahead would delay adjournment until after the Democratic national convention June 24.

GERMAN PLANES FLYING TOWARD SHETLAND AREA

LONDON, April 8 — Royal Air Force planes went aloft in the Shetland Islands area today after an air raid alarm indicated the possible approach of Nazi bombing planes.

While the air ministry announcement did not indicate an attack, it was understood the Nazi planes were sighted flying towards the Shetlands, used by the British navy and air force as a base.

At least two German planes were shot down by British flyers yesterday, the air ministry claimed, and a third badly damaged in encounters over the North Sea and Western Front. Two British planes failed to return from the North Sea fight.

This battle occurred when a patrol of the coastal command intercepted a squadron of Nazi fighter planes. One Nazi plane was shot down in flames and the other limped out of the battle apparently badly damaged.

Royal Air Force headquarters in France issued the following communique on the Western Front fight:

"This morning one of our fighter patrols encountered a large formation of enemy fighters in the neighborhood of Metz. The enemy formation attacked our patrol, resulting in a number of individual combats fought at great height.

"One Nazi Messerschmidt 109 was shot down near Boulay, on the Moselle River. All of our aircraft returned safely."

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8 — The Republic Steel Corporation today lost an appeal to the Supreme Court for revision and reversal of a sweeping unfair labor practice order of the National Labor Relations Board, which included an order and reinstated more than 5,000 employees.

200 Vie for County Scholarship Team

Two hundred county pupils gathered at Circleville High School Saturday to compete for places on the District-State Scholarship team that will compete with teams from 17 counties in Central Ohio at Ohio State University on May 4.

The team from Pickaway County will consist of 32 students in academic subjects and eight in commercial studies. The team will not be chosen until later this week since several students took two examinations and placed well in both. They may take only one test at the district meet at the University and through consultations between the students and supervisors the high scoring students will decide in which examinations they will compete as a member of the team.

Several tie scores were recorded in the grading of the examinations and several very close scores have been returned that will make it difficult to place members on the team.

Those who placed in the top three that took the various tests are as follows: Biology: Max McNeal, Scioto; Emogean Carr, Perry; Harry Bowsher, Scioto. Chemistry: Oren Neff, Perry; Carl Martin, Ashville; George LeVally, Perry.

Rio De Janeiro Goes To

Norway; 150 Lost

LONDON, April 8 — Reuters News Agency reported today in a dispatch from Oslo that the German military transport, the Rio De Janeiro, was torpedoed and sunk near Clerionstrand, Norway, with a reported loss of 150 lives.

The transport, a vessel of 5200 tons, carried a normal complement of 300 men, it was reported, but some were picked up by nearby ships.

COPENHAGEN, April 8 — Three German ships and a fourth vessel whose nationality was unknown were attacked and sunk by Allied naval action today in narrow waters between Denmark and Norway.

Two of the Nazi vessels, the 5800 ton Poseidon and the 2300 ton Kreta, were attacked by submarines after radioing an SOS. The Poseidon was hit by a torpedo.

The name of the third vessel was not available.

Some of the wounded men from the ships reached safety on the shores of Norway.

HARLAN COUNTY MINES CALLED OUT ON STRIKE

HARLAN, Ky., April 8 — Five Harlan County mines were closed today by a strike of 1,400 members of the CIO's United Mine Workers Union.

The strike was called despite the posting of notices invoking the "no-strike" clause in the UMW contract with mine operators.

A 300-man picket line was formed outside the Harlan-Williams Coal company mine at Verda, largest of the five mines affected. Peace was maintained despite threats of trouble.

Harlan County last year was the scene of violence during a UMW walkout. Former Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler instituted virtual martial law in the county by dispatching troops of the state militia.

The union called the strike on charges that the mine operators changed their methods of docking mines for dirt found in mined coal.

R. H. Cornett, secretary of the Harlan-Williams company, said: "We have a no-strike contract with the UMW, and have work notices posted, but no one showed up for work."

"This is the tenth strike called by the union since May, 1939."

Three Harlan-Williams mines were forced into idleness, along with the Darby Coal Corporation and Dixie-Darby Fuel Company pits.

British Would Welcome Engagement With
Nazi Fleet, London Says, After Berlin

COUNTER-STEP PLEDGED BY REICH

Swedes, Dutch Quake At Fear They May

Dropped At Three Points Off Coast

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

Anglo-French warships entered Norwegian territorial waters today and mined them at three points in a drastic move to tighten the Allied blockade against the Reich.

A few hours later, while Allied vessels guarded the mine fields, Norway sent up a bitter protest for fear that she and other neutral Scandinavian nations would be drawn into the European war.

The Oslo government demanded the mines be removed immediately and insisted that Anglo-French warships guarding the mines be withdrawn. Oslo also charged the Allies with violating Norwegian neutrality and sovereignty.

Germany seized on the mine-sowing episode to turn neutral nations against the British and French. This and an alleged British plot to sabotage and block the Danube River, the Reich claimed, represented an Allied attempt to spread the war to both Scandinavia and the Balkans. The Allies, Germany charged had "declared war on neutrals."

Britain refused to waver, however, and said the mines and ships would stay in Norwegian waters where they were put. If the Norwegians sweep the mines away, new ones will be sown. If the Germans try to remove them, "the British navy will welcome an engagement."

Counter-Action Hinted

German officials retorted that the Reich would "accept the Allied challenge." Berlin officials predicted that a German counter-action "could be taken for granted."

Furthermore, Berlin said, mere protests by Norway will not satisfy Berlin.

Other Scandinavian nations quaked at what the future may hold.

LONDON, April 8 — The Norwegian newspaper Dagbladet reported today that "considerable German naval forces" were seen proceeding northward in the Kattegat, according to a Reuters' dispatch from Oslo.

The Kattegat is the passage between Denmark and Norway, connecting the Baltic with the North Sea.

hold in store for them as a European battlefield. The Swedish cabinet held an emergency meeting, while the Swedish public was dumb-founded at the news.

Sweden's general staff announced unspecified measures to strengthen national defense.

Holland also was shocked at the British action. Dutch officials regarded the mining of Norwegian waters as a breach of international law and "not an appropriate reply to German attacks on neutral shipping."

In Paris French military officials predicted a quick showdown between the Allies and Germany — and the possibility that Chancellor Hitler's legions might strike their first blow in Scandinavia.

In the grim foreboding of what may come on a huge scale, artillery barked and roared along the Western Front in renewed duels. (Continued on Page Two)

TRUCK FAILS TO MAKE
CURVE; BRIDGE DAMAGED

Driving a truck for the David Davies Packing Company, Henry W. Taylor, 28, Columbus, failed to turn fast enough when he came to a bend in the road as it leads to the bridge over Yellowbud Creek on the Kinderhook Road, rammed into the end of the bridge at 5 a. m. Monday sending the cab and engine section of the truck into the creek while the trailer section remained on the damaged bridge.

The force with which he hit the bridge at a high rate of speed sent part of the structure sagging into the water.

No stock was in the truck at the time and Taylor came out of the cab unscratched and without injury.

LONDON — Russia has commenced construction of a "Siegfried Line" of defenses 3,000 miles long facing the Manchukuo frontier, according to Japanese advices. British press dispatches said today. Reports from Shanghai to the London Daily Telegraph and News Chronicle said it was believed Russia was preparing her far eastern defenses in preparation for a "push in the Balkans."

LONDON — Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will make a statement to the House of Commons tomorrow regarding the Anglo-French mining of Norwegian territorial waters, it was learned today.

VOTERS OF TWO STATES DECIDE VITAL ISSUES

President And Garner Vie In Illinois; Nebraska Ballot Important

WASHINGTON, April 8—While the Illinois and Nebraska presidential primaries Tuesday are capturing popular interest, national politicians today are awaiting the congressional elections in Nebraska's first district for a hint of the 1940 trend.

This special election, to be held tomorrow in a farm belt area blanketing the city of Lincoln, may presage the outcome of next November's national contest. The district has been a barometer of national balloting for the last decade.

The "first Nebraska" went overwhelmingly Democratic in 1930, when the Democrats captured the house. It matched the Roosevelt landslide of 1932. It remained faithfully Democratic in 1934 and 1936 but, two years ago, it slipped quietly into the G. O. P. column as the Republicans began their comeback march. An independent candidate aided the Republican victory.

On Tuesday, J. Hyde Sweet, Republican editor, will try to keep it in the G. O. P. column against Charles Dafoe, former Democratic state senator, in a race for the seat held by the late George H. Heinke, Republican. The outcome may well provide a portent of the 1940 presidential results.

The presidential primaries in Illinois and Nebraska attract interest because of the personalities involved and their effect on the nominating conventions. In Illinois, Vice President John N. Garner is contesting President Roosevelt for 58 delegates. Racket-buster Thomas E. Dewey will win the Republican primary because he is unopposed.

CHARGES OF KIDNAPING QUASHED AGAINST YOUTH

PAULDING, April 8—Dismissal of three kidnaping indictments against Sylvester Wisda, 21, of nearby Sherwood, today left his case apparently closed.

Wisda was indicted on three counts after Oscar Ball shot and killed Louis Strake, reputed accomplice of Wisda in the asserted kidnaping of Ball's 19-year-old son, Richard.

Judge Mervin L. Day dismissed the indictments on request of Prosecutor Wilmer D. Rekeeweg. Rekeeweg moved for dismissal after Wisda and young Ball submitted to lie detector tests in Toledo. Rekeeweg said the tests threw a different light on the case.

Attorney George Barnett, representing Wisda, expressed surprise when informed the indictments had been quashed. He said it was his understanding the lie detector tests would be kept secret temporarily.

Arthur R. Cline, Toledo attorney representing Strake's family, has been unsuccessful in his efforts to exhume Strake's body. He claimed he has uncovered new evidence.

The asserted kidnaping and the shooting occurred on January 27. Strake was shot while he assertedly held a gun at Richard's temple. The case has been replete with unexplained angles.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO MAINE MEMBER OF HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 8—Rep. Clyde H. Smith (R) Me., died today after suffering a severe heart attack four days ago.

Smith, who was 63 years old, was elected to the house in 1936. His home is in Skowhegan, Me.

One of the three Maine representatives—all are Republican—Smith was a member of the House Labor Committee, which recently voted to amend the Wagner Labor Act, and enlarge the National Labor Relations Board. Smith was known as a "labor man."

Smith was born on a farm in Somerset County, Me., and moved to Skowhegan in 1905. He was engaged in the automobile business early in life, but spent most of his years in public service, holding a number of state and local posts.

He served eight years as a state representative, and from 1928 to 1932 was chairman of the state highway commission.

He was married 10 years ago to Margaret Chase.

Berlin Reiterates Allies In New "Onslaught" To Involve Neutrals

wegian territorial waters, hunting for German merchant ships, presumably.

The German government immediately contacted the Norwegian government for discussions regarding the next move.

It was understood in Berlin that Germany regards the "first essential step" to be establishment of a Norwegian counter-action against the Allies.

But, it was stated, mere protests to London and Paris will not satisfy Berlin.

Secondly, Germany intends to launch an energetic campaign designed to brand the Allies' action in Rumania and in Scandinavian waters as "final definite proof" that the Allies are "ravaging and abolishing neutrality rights."

Procedure Assailed

In addition, it was made clear, the Reich expects neutral European nations to take note of what is going on and to refuse to "submit meekly to any such procedure."

Authorities said that, summed up, Germany is seizing on the moment for a campaign designed to compel the neutrals to swing against the Allies.

Officials said that the Allied move in Scandinavian waters failed to surprise Germany, which had expected such a development for some weeks.

For this reason, they added, it could be assumed that Germany's counter-blow already has been mapped out. Observers expressed the opinion that neutral nations are now more than ever "caught in the middle" and probably will be the chief sufferers.

It was not believed in Berlin that Germany will intervene directly in Norway, but there seemed to be no doubt that clashes will occur sooner or later in Norwegian territorial waters.

Interruption of German shipping in Norwegian territorial waters is less important now than it was a month ago since other waterways over which the Reich can obtain iron ore have now thawed, opening them to navigation.

But German officials stressed the principle involved and the German government made it clear it would reject as a "mere alibi" the Allied claim that the Germans were sinking neutral ships within territorial waters or were not entitled to use territorial waters for iron ore transports.

Weakness Admitted

"The acts of the Allies betray their desperation and weakness," a spokesman declared. "They are nervous and ready to commit any violation while telling the world labor committee, which recently voted to amend the Wagner Labor Act, and enlarge the National Labor Relations Board. Smith was known as a 'labor man'."

Official irritation over the Scandinavian situation and announcement of the alleged British Danube Rivers sabotage plot followed a claim by the high command that seven Allied war planes had been destroyed in a series of air combats. Loss of three German aircraft was admitted.

Patrols clashed in no man's land while planes battled overhead.

In the Shetland Islands an air raid alarm sent British pursuit planes skyward to hunt Nazi raiders. And in London the British government published a time table— which Berlin called "laughable nonsense"—purporting to show German plans for complete conquest of Europe by 1945.

Best Interests Served

The British and French asserted their move in sowing mines in Norwegian waters was in the best interests of neutral nations as well as of themselves.

This action, aimed at tightening the blockade of Germany to the stragulation point, aroused an immediate furore in Scandinavia, and even led to hints of a possible Anglo-German naval battle.

British and French warships jointly laid the mines at dawn at three points of the Norwegian coast, warning that ships entering the stipulated areas would do so at their "own peril."

Reports reaching London said the Norwegian premier and foreign minister held a morning conference, calling in the Anglo-French envoys for what must have been a heated session. The Norwegian parliamentary foreign affairs committee also met.

Berlin responded with loud threats and warnings: "Peace in Scandinavia is in utmost danger. . . Germany will not sit still waiting for the Allies to put pressure on Scandinavian countries. Germany is ready to strike quickly in an unexpected day."

In London also Britain prepared another move to cut off Germany from sources of vital war supplies. This took the form of a conference among British envoys to the Balkan states, Russia, Italy and Turkey with the object of drawing up plans for stern economic warfare in southeastern Europe.

GLAD TO TELL ANYBODY WHAT VENDOL DID SAYS OFFICER

Declares it has been years since felt so good till finding the right medicine. Relieved constipation, stomach upsets and other troubles.

In scores of instances Vendol has won public acclaim by the best and most substantial residents of this state, for bringing back the joy of living after months, and sometimes years, of complaints that robbed them of glowing health. An example of how Vendol helped such a person is the public statement from Mr. H. A. Welsh of Route 6, Ashland, Ohio, a Guard Officer at the Ohio State Reformatory who says,

"Constipation kept me feeling so bad that neither meatime nor bedtime were pleasures to look forward to. This constipated condition kept my stomach upset with acid indigestion and most everything lay heavy, turned to sour gas and riled up to my throat. Felt like there was a lump on my chest and I often had sick headaches and was so nervous that I couldn't get to sleep for hours after going to bed. Next morning I'd feel limp as a rag with no energy to go to work. "Sometimes I'd feel bilious with spots dancing before my eyes and when I stooped over I'd have to steady myself. I had little pimples on my skin.

"About three weeks on Vendol have made a big change in all this because it relieved my constipation completely; then all the other troubles seemed to fade away. It has been years since I've felt so good and I can hardly find words to thank Vendol for the grand change and relief it brought."

Give Vendol a chance to relieve your troubles. You can rely upon this famous medicine that has already helped so many people right here in our home town.

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists everywhere and is highly recommended here by Mykrantz Drug Store.

DIES DECLARES RED ACTIVITIES IN NAVY GAINING

More Communists Finding Jobs In Construction Yards Of Nation

EVIDENCE IS OBTAINED

50 At Work In Philadelphia Area; Californians Asks Immediate Action

WASHINGTON, April 8—Evidence that the Communist Party is increasing its activities in United States navy yards is in the hands of his committee, Chairman Dies (D) Tex., disclosed today.

"It is a serious situation, especially serious in troubled times like these," the Texan declared. "We intend to get to the bottom of it—find out just who the navy Communists are and exactly what they are doing."

Dies said he had "information which I consider reliable" that there are more than 50 Communist party members working in the Philadelphia navy yard, and that similar "fraction memberships" exist in other yards.

"While the numbers are not great, they seem to be on the increase," Dies declared. "And a small minority of Communists usually wields a great influence in any group because of their solidarity and obedience to the 'party line.'"

Rep. Voorhis (D) Calif., a committee member who comes from the "navy town" of Los Angeles, supported the chairman with a plea for a thorough investigation.

Purpose Sought

"We should find out all about it," he declared. "If the Communists are organizing in any branch of the service, there must be some purpose behind it, and the people ought to know what that purpose is."

The committee will swing into this phase of its investigation when it calls Carl Reeve, Philadelphia Communist secretary who was subpoenaed when the party records were seized in that city.

While the committee previously has studied Communism in the navy, Dies said that with the seizure of the Philadelphia records he obtained for the first time "concrete and detailed evidence."

Among the documents is a leaflet bearing the superscription "Communist Party, Unit, Philadelphia Navy Yard." The committee, it was learned, will seek to learn the names of members in this unit.

Last night, Dies said he would ask the administration to support proposed legislation to require filing of names of all foreign-affiliated organizations, with membership lists. He predicted public sentiment would force its passage.

Raids Protested

At the same time, the committee's recent raids on Communist Party offices were condemned by the American Civil Liberties Union, which announced it would aid in defending Communists cited for contempt because they refused to answer committee questions.

Does said the committee's drive to round up nearly 100 Communist and German-American Bund officials for questioning would continue.

LIGHTS BLIND MOTORIST; AUTO HITS PARKED CAR

Blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile, John Clellan, Ashville, ran his car into that of Albert J. Webb, Chillicothe, as he was parked on North Court Street just north of Pleasant Street at 8:10 p. m. Saturday, police reported.

Clellan was driving south on Court Street and said that he failed to see the Webb car because it had no tail light. He told police also that he could not notice the parked car in the glare of the lights of the oncoming automobile. Both cars sustained fender damage.

Moon Blots the Sun, And Clouds Obliterate All

Cincinnati saw a total eclipse Sunday afternoon and evening. Not only did the moon blot out the sun, but the clouds and the rain blot out both the heavenly orbs and the astronomical show was a complete "washout."

The amateur weathermen, whether it be by aching bones or the old living room barometer, who may have smoked some glass for the eclipse display, need not fret too much for it is bound to come again some other day. Only a much darker sky than is usual for a rainy day gave any hint of what was going on above the clouds. The eclipse, if it were visible,

FINAL CURTAIN COMES DOWN FOR FAMOUS ACTOR

NEW YORK, April 8—A generation which applauded him as a great matinee idol shortly after the turn of the century today mourned the death of William Faversham, 72, the British-born actor.

Faversham died at the home of friend in Bay Shore, N. Y., to which he went a week ago from an actors' home at East Islip where he had been a guest since 1937. He began his career in London in 1885 and came to New York two years later. His most famous role was that of Jim Carston in "The Squaw Man." His last stage appearance was in 1934.

The actor will be buried at Huntington at the side of his second wife, Julie Opp, one of his leading ladies. He leaves a widow, his third wife, the former Edith Campbell, and two sons.

FIVE KILLED, 13 HURT IN STORM

Louisiana Area Discloses 600 Homeless Following Sunday Tornado

AMITE, La., April 8—Five dead, 13 seriously injured and more than 600 homeless were counted today in the wake of a tornado which swept yesterday through this area, north and west of New Orleans. Damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

The dead were Carl Pittmann, 45, a county superintendent of schools; Mrs. Pittmann, 42; and Oliver Rudison, Negro, all killed at Amite; and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Guillie, drowned when a houseboat on which they were living capsized in Bayou Baratarie near Lafitte.

At least 50 houses were leveled in Amite, and a 6-block stretch of the business district was left in ruins. The Catholic and Methodist Churches were virtually destroyed. Ambulances and other aid were rushed from many nearby communities.

It was the second tornado disaster in the state in two weeks, five were killed where the previous tornado struck ten days ago ninety miles southwest of here.

SURVEY SHOWS BRITISHERS LIKE ANTHONY EDEN

LONDON, April 8—The London News Chronicle published a survey of popular opinion today in which Dominions Secretary Anthony Eden was the choice of 28 percent of those questioned to succeed Neville Chamberlain as British prime minister.

Other mentioned for the job: First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill—25 percent. Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax—7 percent.

Major Clement Attlee, laborite leader—6 percent. David Lloyd George, World War premier—5 percent.

Unless we have the date mixed up with a couple hundred other birth dates we have on file, Edward Dewey will be 79 years young Tuesday the 9th. But yesterday being Sunday, when there's not a whole lot to do except Sunday school and church attendance, we are guessing the family folk were most all in to have some extra eats with Dad and talk everything over in general. And we'll be seeing about it today yet and find out what happened. Ed is one of the few old-timers here who knows a lot about early Ashville. And while he may not be able to "stick on" until the one hundredth anniversary celebration of the incorporation of Ashville which is in 1980, we feel sure he'll do his best toward it. These school kiddies out in the grades now, are already making plans how they'll be mayor, grand marshal and everything when this big celebration finally comes along.

BRITAIN IS GRIEVED

IN view of a growing sharpness of temper arising lately between England and America, readers may be interested in this rather sorrowful but dignified statement in Britain's behalf by the liberal Manchester Guardian Weekly.

"We have to admit, of course," says the English paper, "the remarkably irritable character of some American comment. With one breath the Allies are assailed because they do not try to smash the Siegfried Line, and with the next they are abused because they try to tighten up the naval blockade. Their purchasing power in the United States is limited by law, but when they concentrate what resources are left to them on essential supplies there is a storm from the interests that are hurt.

"The Allies make an agreement to economize their forces; they are criticized because this may interfere with the old channels of trade. And so, through a score of issues, the game of making an uncomfortable best of both worlds goes on.

"We are pretty good at it ourselves, and we know from our own history how easily others who share the Anglo-Saxon habit of mind can be misled. For our part, we accept the inconsistencies with resignation, realizing that we can do nothing about them but having confidence that, whatever the vagaries, the influence of the United States will not be cast to weaken the great principles of government and civilization that we share with her."

THE CHILDREN'S BARD

ONE might expect a dramatic critic who has seen the greatest actors in the greatest plays to be bored at a children's production. Not so Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times when he recently saw a version of Shakespeare's "Tempest" performed by a group of children.

In the first place, the choice of play was sound, in Mr. Atkinson's opinion. "The Tempest" is imaginative, with unearthly characters, well suited to the innocence of children. "Things that trouble the adult mind a little become wholly enchanting when high, piping voices speak them and when the acting is artless and the grace is the natural plasticity of young bodies."

"Although all of us have probably heard the 'In a cowslip's bell I lie' verse more skilfully spoken," says Mr. Atkinson, "it seems superlatively lovely when a slender child speaks it sincerely as epilogue to a dancing performance." He found the whole production "strangely touching" and confessed to a "lump in the adult throat."

The performance must have been good. The young actors must have been wholly absorbed and sympathetic. It may be

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles F. Stewart

NEWS FROM Salt Lake City is to the effect that Utah's liberal Democrats are urging Representative Abe Murdock to oppose Senator William H. King for their party's nomination in the state's September primaries, as their next candidate for the upper congressional chamber.

Representative Murdock in Washington hasn't agreed yet to do it, but maybe he will.

That isn't the point, though. The point is that a press commentator, discussing the story, says "Senator King has been in politics since he was 21, and has been consistently a conservative."

KING LIBERALISM

Now, I can understand this statement, as coming from a newspaperman whose recollection doesn't ante-date the New Deal era. He's misinformed, however, as to the pre-New Deal period. Any old-timer knows that Senator King hasn't been known as "consistently conservative." Much to the contrary.

For a long time, until rather recently, Senator King was a Utah co-solomon with Senator Reed Smoot. Smoot was a Republican and there wasn't any dispute that he was conservative.

In those days it was one of the puzzles of Washington how the same state, simultaneously, could have on Capitol Hill as hard-boiled an old-guardman as Reed Smoot and as enlightened a liberal as William H. King—and of different parties, too. If one could be elected, how could the other one be—by the same state's bunch of voters?

WHICH WAS WHICH?

I was nearly curious enough to go out to Utah to investigate, but I doubt that even the Mormons could have told me. It was just "one of those things!"—inexplicable.

I did consult Senator Smoot. "Oh, he said, 'King's a rampant radical.' That wasn't very explanatory."

I quizzed Senator King also. "It does seem queer," he confessed. "I believe there must be something personal and non-political about it. I own that it's inconsistent."

The fact remains that King, then, never for a minute questioned that he was a liberal. And Smoot would have had a fit if anybody had intimated that King was as conservative as good judgment required.

THE SCENE WAS CHANGED

Not only the scene changed. The rapidity with which it's done it in the last 10 years is confusing.

It seems only yesterday since I, as a capital correspondent, called on Senator George or Senator Bailey when I wanted a liberal interview. I even had to go as far as Senator Nye or Shipstead or Frazier to get anything liberal—not to mention radicalism.

Now conservatives are pretty liberal. Even Republican old-guardmen are.

And Democrats (who used to think they were liberals) class as reactionaries on the present basis. And some Republicans are New Dealers.

A CASE IN POINT

And Utah is just a conspicuous case in point.

It presents an outstanding instance of an old-time liberal versus a new-time essentially liberal party.

It isn't Republican-Democratic. It isn't conservative-liberal. It splits four ways.

And it splits nationally. Who's Republican or Democratic? Who's liberal or conservative? The psychosis is what they call it—the psychosis.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

GARNER PRIMARY LITERATURE

CHICAGO—The President and Jack Garner may be good personal friends in Washington, but out here in Illinois the latter's campaign managers are pulling no punches in the bitter fight for delegates.

They are socking the Roosevelt third-term ticket with everything in the arena, including the water bucket.

Chief Garner shillalah is a four-page leaflet that is the hottest piece of campaign literature seen in these parts in a long time. It fairly sizzles, and blasts the third term and leading New Dealers more scorchingly than anything the GOP has put out. Over 2,500,000 copies have been distributed in this state and 1,400,000 were used in Wisconsin.

Principal punch in the leaflet is a four-column inside layout under a big-type headline, "THE THIRD TERM—WHICH GROUP WILL YOU VOTE FOR?" Then follows a caption "FOR" under which appears this list:

"Harold Ickes, U. S. salary $15,000.
Henry Wallace, " $15,000.
Harry Hopkins, " $15,000.
Miss Perkins, " $15,000.
Ben Cohen, " $ 9,000.
Tom Corcoran, " $ 8,500.
Jerome Frank, " $10,000.
W. G. McAdoo, " $25,000.

Boss Hague of New Jersey, profits from politics — unknown.
Boss Nash of Chicago—profits from politics — unknown.

"(Note—Bosses Pendergast of Kansas City and Jimmy Hines, patronage dispenser in Manhattan, are temporarily silent about a third term. They are doing their first terms in the penitentiary.)"

"They and a horde of other job holders are riding the gravy train. It is a free ride and they will never get off unless we, the voters, put them off. They are for a third term, or a fourth, or a fifth."

Opposite this fusillade and under the caption "AGAINST" are four pictures—Washington, Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and Grover Cleveland. In addition are Coolidge's famous "I do not choose to run" statement and a quote from Jim Farley: "I place my country above the party."

COURT-HOUSE DEWEY

MADISON, Wis. — Dewey's sweeping Wisconsin victory was particularly striking in view of the howling faux pas he pulled here.

It occurred during the New Yorker's address before a Saturday afternoon crowd of several thousand from the steps of the great, tall-domed State Capitol, of which Wisconsinites are very proud. He was lambasting the Administration's failure to balance the budget, when he turned and pointed to the State House.

"I am proud," he said, "to be standing on one of the few court-house steps that are paid for."

The Capitol, built under the elder Senator Robert LaFollette, was financed by a special tax on the railroads.

NOTE—Dewey and Roosevelt have one thing in common—both are down on critical newsmen. In the latest Dewey (Continued on Page Eight) taken for granted that they had fun acting that play. Incidentally, if one may speak of education at such a time, this is surely the best way to introduce the young to the works of Shakespeare.

Doctor's Reward Not Measured in Money

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TODAY I want to review briefly two new books on medical subjects.

The Medical Career, and Other Papers, by Harvey Cushing, (Little, Brown & Company, 1940).

"I read of a doctor who was summoned in the middle of the night to the bedside of a poor fellow whom he found apparently strangling to death. In the dim light of a coal-oil light held unsteadily by the dying man's wife he succeeded, by opening a large abscess in the back of the man's throat, in saving his life; and he thus describes his own reaction to this episode:

"Happy? As I drove homeward that night I doubt if even a Methodist evangelist who has just defrauded the devil of his legitimate prey by converting the wickedest man in town, or a criminal lawyer who has snatched a millionaire murderer from the gallows, could possibly feel more jubilant and uproarious. Incidentally, about six months later I collected four dollars for that job. I felt a little bit ashamed of accepting it, for I had already been so richly, so magnificently paid in the pleasure the experience gave me."

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Thus that great humanist, the founder of physiological surgery, attested to his ultimate faith in the human needs of medical practice.

Ready, of course, he was to adapt all science to those ends:

"Röntgen could hardly have dreamed that his discovery would revolutionize our methods of diagnosis; the Curies that radium would prove to be an effective agent in combating certain kinds of malignant tumors; or Faraday that his alternating current would some day be utilized in place of the scalpel to make dissection a relatively bloodless procedure."

These excerpts from Dr. Harvey Cushing's lately published posthumous volume of essays remind us, heavy hearted, that we will hear no more the expressions of that luminous faith.

Faiths That Healed, by Ralph H. Major, M.D. (D. Appleton-Century Company).

In this book Doctor Major describes some medical miracles, alleged or false, and gives an explanation of the way they happen. The subjects range from an examination of the miracles at Lourdes, St. Vitus' dance, the Pied Piper of Hamelin, the case of Therese Neumann, the peasant girl of Bavaria, who has gone without food since 1926; the faith healing of P. P. Quimby, John Alexander Dowie and Vladimir Zeleis, to a scholarly consideration of witchcraft and its medical implications.

St. Vitus' Dance today is the disease which we call "chorea." It affects only young people. It is an infectious disease, and manifests itself by symptoms of lack of control of the muscles. But the real dance of St. Vitus was a mania of the Middle Ages, probably hysterical in character.

The Shrine of St. Vitus is in Savoy in the Vosges Mountains in Alsace. St. Vitus, a Roman nobleman converted to Christianity, suffered martyrdom and his relics were discovered to be capable of performing miracles, especially in cases of demoniacal possession. For that reason the victims of the dance mania in the year 1518 were ordered to be taken to the chapel of St. Vitus, where they were healed.

Doctor Major treats of the subjects in his book with the sure knowledge of a trained clinician. The language is simple and does not require a medical education for its understanding.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

THE CULPRIT ESCAPES

WHENEVER a psychic bid ad-dict gets away with an apparently impossible fine score on a deal, it encourages him to try more of the same. In the long run, it is highly questionable that he profits, in terms of net points, from the spectacular unorthodox tactics, but he undeniably gets something which the conservative bidder never can have in the same form—thrills. So perhaps he is pretty wise at that, for the main thing we all seek for the game is fun.

"When I heard Ed's bid of 1-Club with that vulnerability," he said, speaking of his partner, Edwin N. Moore, in the North, "I guessed it to be psychic, especially when East overcalled. To head off a possible spade game for them, I bid the suit myself. As Ed showed strength with 3-Spades, I knew I was in for it. I tried twice to get out of trouble into No Trump. The only reason I didn't try 6-No Trumps is that I was afraid he'd go to 7-Spades."

Now for the play. West led the heart 9 to the A. The spade 2 brought the 5, A and 9, then the 4 called out the 10, K and 6. The 3 was led and East took his Q, on which West's J fell, leaving dummy's 8 high. Thus the crazy contract was made. Mr. Meyer running nine more tricks after East returned his heart J. Hardly anybody could believe the score on the slip until it was explained.

THE KILLER SPEAKS
RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

"YOU MUSTN'T come," I objected when Miss Markham volunteered to join the hunt for my kidnaper. "It would be too dangerous."

"Why?"

"He already has sent me a threat, warning me to keep off his trail. He delivered it at your house." I told her how the note had come through the window. "And I have reason to believe that a similar threat led to a suicide last night, so you see, he means business."

Her brown eyes were wide with alarm. "Bill, why didn't you tell me!"

"That was something for the police, not for you."

"But I am the sister of the man who was—murdered."

"That's a cruel word. Are we even sure of it?"

"You mean, there's a chance it wasn't murder? It might have been—"

"I have no theory," I said hastily. "Theories are dangerous. Look at Belzer. Well, here's our cab. Will you reconsider?"

"No." She was firm.

"All right." To the driver I said, "The Rio Vista club."

He took the order without question. There was nothing strange in a young couple driving to the Rio Vista club at this late hour of the afternoon. The sun was near setting. It would soon be dinner time, and the club's dinners, if not its liquors, were popular.

"What do you hope to discover at the club?" the girl asked me.

"I really don't know," I confessed, "but it is a place to begin. Belzer thought there was some connection between that boatman and the operation of a gang working there."

"It sounds fantastic."

"I know. But that fellow was waiting for someone in the garden. I'm sure of it. And if he was, he was waiting for someone who worked for the club or was a guest there. I would say it might have been the cook's helper he was waiting for, but Tony Pappini said the boy went home early. He was the one who committed suicide last night."

"How horrible!"

"That boatman is a potential killer. Even though he may not have murdered your brother, if we can hang the crime on him we'll be doing society a favor."

"So the first thing you want to do is to find out who he intended to meet?"

"That's right. We'll assume that he had no connection with your brother's death. What was he looking for?"

The girl bit her lips. "Suppose we are making a terrible mistake? Suppose this man had no more connection with my brother's death than Jerry Montcalm had?"

"I say—what difference does it make? He is a killer. He tried to kill me."

The girl nodded. "He must be the man we're looking for. He must! Whom shall we question?"

"I think we'd best start with the cook."

We arrived at the club at an hour when I would have expected to see a number of cars parked within the shrub encircled parking area on the north side of the peninsula, but there were only three cars.

"Looks like a quiet night," the taxi driver commented as he accepted his fare. "Quietest I've ever seen it here this time of the evening."

Louise was clutching my arm tightly as we climbed the wide steps. I knew what she was thinking. Not long ago her brother had climbed these steps, for the last time.

No one was in the dining room. A boy in uniform—I suppose he had been hired to replace the cook's helper—informal us there were sandwiches, if we wished to eat, but no dinner. "Sorry," he said. "The cook's ill. We're trying to get someone else, but I don't think we'll have much luck before 7 o'clock."

"Anything serious?" I asked, thinking it strange that the club would announce the sickness of the man who prepared its meals. It wouldn't tend to help business, to say the least.

"We don't know what it is," said the boy. "I think he's gone off his nut. They say he's been actin' queer for a couple of days."

I remembered how he had burst into tears over Alfred's death. "Maybe he's upset about the—"

"The murder, sir? That's what I think. He'll snap out of it."

"Could we—see him?" Louise asked. Her fingers were clamping

still tighter on my arm as she voiced the question.

The boy looked undecided. His eyes wandered toward the stairs. "Guess it's all right. You friends of his?"

"Old friends," I lied.

"Well, the doctor said it's nothin' people can catch, so go on up and see him. Last room at the north end of the hall."

I hesitated. "Is the doctor with him?"

"No. The doctor hasn't got here yet. We telephoned, but he's on an emergency somewhere. He told us, on the phone, it's just a recurrence—I think that's what he said—of trouble Tony's had before."

"And so you're just letting Tony lie quiet for a while until the doctor gets here?"

"That's it. He gets awful excited. I hope you can take his mind off his troubles."

"But he's not violent?" Louise asked. I could sense the tightness in her throat, as though she was wondering—as I was—if Tony's illness could be caused by the fact that he was harboring some terrible secret, a secret we were about to uncover.

"Oh, no. You needn't be scared," the boy reassured her with a smile. We mounted the steps without speaking. The upper hall already was in semi-darkness. No lights had been turned on.

There were no sounds, although transoms were open. There was no light in the transom above the door at the end of the hall. We approached it silently, our steps muffled by the thick carpet.

I was about to knock on the door when Louise restrained me. She put a finger to her lips and then leaned close to the panel, listening. "I hear someone breathing heavily," she whispered. "We really shouldn't be here without speaking to his doctor. Suppose he's seriously sick, and we—"

"This is no time to hesitate," I said. "Jerry's life may depend on what Tony Pappini can tell us." I knocked.

A piercing scream—the cry of a person in mortal terror—drove us back a step, clutching each other. On the other side of the door something crashed.

I lunged forward, knocking the door open. The bed was in wild disarray. The room was empty, Tony Pappini had vanished.

One-Minute Test

1. What states were formed from the Northwest Territory?
2. Who is Britain's first sea lord?
3. Who is the only living British dramatist to have a play produced in Germany since the outbreak of the war?

Words of Wisdom

Patience and time do more than strength or passion.—La Fontaine.

Today's Horoscope

A busy and favorable year is ahead of those who are celebrating birthdays on this day. Promotion is promised, but do not experiment in your business, and be very careful in your correspondence, thus guarding against deception. The child born today will be highly intelligent, and quick to acquire knowledge. Early morning births are the most propitious.

Hints on Etiquette

No well bred person "cuts" an acquaintance. And no courteous person fails to acknowledge another's smile and bow, even if he cannot remember meeting the person so bowing. He returns it pleasantly, and leaves time to unravel the puzzle as to whether it is a case of mistaken identity or slip of memory on his part.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.
2. Admiral Sir Dudley A. Pound.
3. George Bernard Shaw. His "Pygmalion" was played in Berlin.

Henryetta Williams And Evan Phillips Are Wed

Holy Name Church
In Columbus
Scene

Social Calendar

Of interest to Circleville friends will be the announcement of the wedding of Miss Henryetta Williams of 350 Twentieth Avenue, Columbus, and Mr. Evan Phillips of 112 Sixteenth Avenue, son of Mrs. Nelle Phillips, North Scioto Street. Miss Williams is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. B. G. R. Williams of Greencastle, Ind.

The ceremony was performed Saturday, April 6, at 1 p. m. in the Holy Name Church, Columbus, with the Rev. Fr. Donahue officiating.

Miss Williams, a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority, attended the University of Wisconsin and was graduated from the College of Pharmacy at Ohio State University, Columbus.

Mr. Phillips, a senior in the Ohio State College of Pharmacy, is associated with the Harrington Pharmacy, Upper Arlington. He will be graduated in June.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McDuffie of Buffalo, N. Y., brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom, entertained the new Mr. and Mrs. Phillips at a luncheon at the Marmore, Columbus. Other guests at the wedding luncheon were Mrs. Phillips, mother of the bridegroom; Mrs. John Boggs and Miss Margaret Boggs, West Union Street, his aunt and cousin.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips went to housekeeping in their newly furnished apartment, 20 Indiana Court, North High Street.

Guest In Washington

Mrs. Eleanor W. Bissell of East Main Street left Saturday for Washington, D. C., where she plans to visit for several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Thomas J. Shannon, formerly Caroline Wolfley of Circleville.

Mrs. Bissell will attend the annual Japanese Cherry Blossom festival April 8-12. She will represent the Colonel William Ball Chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists at the National Assembly April 20 in Washington City.

Mrs. Bissell also will attend the sessions of the National Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution when it convenes in Washington. She is a member of the Eugenia Washington chapter, D. A. R., of that city.

Waldelich-Calvert Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Calvert, 1479 South High Street, Columbus, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Mr. Kenneth Waldelich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Waldelich of Washington Township.

The ceremony was performed March 9 by the Rev. Paul Kaefler in the presence of the St. Paul's Evangelical Church of Columbus. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson attended the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldelich are residing at 1485 South High Street, Columbus. Mr. Waldelich is employed at the Borderland Casket company.

Westminster Circle

The Westminster Circle of the Presbyterian Church will meet Saturday at the home of Miss Bonita Hulse, East Union Street.

Women's Missionary Society

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will meet at 2 p. m. Friday at the church for the April session.

Scioto Chapel Aid

Mrs. Wales Florence, Mrs. Milton Leist and Mrs. Paul Timmons will be hostesses when the Scioto Chapel Ladies' Aid Society meets Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Robtown parish house.

U. B. Missionary Convention

Mrs. James Pierce, Mrs. Ross Kirkpatrick and Mrs. A. N. Gruesser have been named delegates and Mrs. John Selmer, Mrs. Montford Kirkwood and Miss Viola Woolver, alternates, of the United Brethren Women's Missionary Association to the thirty-ninth annual convention of the Southeast Ohio Branch to be held in the Wellston U. B. Church April 17-19.

The morning session of Wednesday, April 17, will be devoted to routine committee meetings. Dr. P. E. Wright, conference president, will preside at the afternoon session and conduct the communion service. Mrs. E. S. Kern, president of the branch, will be in charge of this meeting. Mrs. E. M. Hursh, branch repreated to speak at the Thursday morning session.

The Thursday afternoon session will have for its speakers, Dr. Mabel Irene Silver, medical missionary of Rotifunk, Sierra Leone, West Africa, and the Rev. L. B. Mignery, with Mrs. Merle Holcomb of the memorial service which will conclude this period.

The Otterbein Guild banquet will precede the evening service. The guild girls will have charge of the devotionals at this time, with Dr. Silver delivering the address.

The convention will be concluded with the installation of officers at the Friday morning meeting, Dr. Silver being the speaker at this time.

Lodging reservations for the convention should be made with Mrs. John Martin, 510 East Ninth Street, Wellston, O.

Baha'i Group

The Circleville Baha'i study group will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. W. Robinson, South Pickaway Street.

Planting Gladiolus Cormels
The small cormels saved when the gladiolus were dug up last fall should be planted separately in the vegetable or cutting garden this year.

Since the young shoots from the cormels will look like coarse grass, one should place a stage at the head of each row of cormels, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Plant the cormels 2 inches deep in a trench, as illustrated, just as you would garden peas.

The cormels are protected by a hard shell, which makes it difficult for moisture to penetrate them. Therefore, to facilitate germination

GARDEN HINTS
When crocuses are planted in the lawn, do not cut off the tops with the lawn mower until the foliage shows signs of shriveling.

Weeds are more easily destroyed now before they become well established. Hoe them out and make sure that you get all of the roots in the process.

Many of the annuals should be pinched back when only a few inches high, to induce growth of side shoots.

Narcissi, hyacinths, tulips and lilies received as Easter gifts should be saved for planting out in the garden. Water such plants moderately until the foliage dries, then plant them outside and next spring they will reward you with blooms.

Divide large clumps of Shasta daisies, phlox, hardy asters and chrysanthemums as soon as growth starts. Fertilize them well after they have taken hold again.

To keep cats and dogs away from evergreens, spray the plantings with a diluted solution of nicotine sulphate. The spray is harmless to the shrubbery.

"There's a Lot of Misinformation About Advertising Costs . . ."

"I am for any movement that brings down the cost of living for the public. But I am opposed to being fooled by anyone—particularly by those who accuse me of being duped by someone else. I like facts! So, having heard so much about what I have to pay for the advertising of things I buy—how much of my money pays the advertising costs of goods—I looked into the matter, and I got a lot of facts. Here are some: For oranges selling at 25c a dozen, the advertising cost was 3/10c. For cigarettes selling at 13c a pack, the advertising cost was 1/2 of one cent. For an automobile selling for $1000.00, the advertising cost was about $12.00. For a breakfast food selling at 15c a package, the advertising cost was 3/8 of a cent. The average cost of advertising for a dozen different kinds of products I discovered to be under 2% of the selling price to the public . . . Advertising has increased the distribution of goods, and has made mass production practical by making mass selling possible. It has thus increased competition, forced the quality of the products higher, and brought selling prices to the public down lower . . . I, therefore, reject the criticism of those who condemn Business for spending so much on advertising. I reject the criticism because it is misinformed and deceptive. Business does not spend proportionately high amounts for advertising; it spends proportionately little—and what it spends enables me to get better goods for less money."

At The Cliftona

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND, the girl discovered by Max Reinhardt in his Hollywood Bowl production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," portrays the role of Melanthe Wilkes, the patient loyal and devoted wife of Ashley O'Hara, in David O. Selznick's Technicolor production of "Gone with the Wind," at the Cliftona. Her rise to stardom is one of Hollywood's most unusual success stories.

During the summer of 1935, Miss de Havilland, then living in Saratoga, California, made her bid for an acting career by getting a job as second understudy in the role of "Hermia" in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Both the star and the first understudy were forced to leave the production before opening night. Producer-director Reinhardt saw in the second understudy potential star material. He gave Miss de Havilland the role.

RAINS AND PRINGLE

"Payment Deferred," the remarkable drama in which Charles Laughton created his first American sensation, will be the vehicle for Claude Rains and Aileen Pringle when the two stars appear Wednesday April 10, 9 p. m. in the CBS Star Theatre's version of the film.

Rains will portray Laughton's original role, that of William Marlowe, a bank clerk, who fearing his creditors, kills his nephew who has just arrived, a stranger in London. The boy is buried in Marlowe's garden. Thereafter, a prey to his conscience, Marlowe spends the money he has inherited through committing the crime but tragic circumstances betray him and his wife dies by her own hand, a victim of poison.

ROSS' MEMORY SPOTS

With his new night time schedule under way, Lanny Ross' selection of memory spots which highlight his quarter-hour program four times a week are as follows: Monday: "Missouri Waltz." Wednesday: "My Blue Heaven." Thursday: "The End of a Perfect Day." Friday: "A Baby's Prayer At Twilight."

RADIO NEWS NOTES

"Manhattan Holiday," a Mark Hellinger story of Broadway with an O. Henry surprise ending, was the first dramatic offering of Don Ameche and Claire Trevor on the debut program of their new show. Each week Ameche, Miss Trevor and a supporting cast will present a dramatized version of a well-known Hellinger story, adapted for radio by Tom McKnight.

"Murder for Profit" will be the timely theme of the thrilling "Mr. District Attorney" drama on the NBC-Red network Thursday, April 11 at 8 p. m. Jay Jostyn, in the title role, will investigate an episode of "suicides" among the city's wealthy men. The evidence leads him to believe he's on the trail of fiendish killers. Dangerous adventure awaits him. In support are Vickie Vola as the D. A.'s secretary and Len Doyle as Harrington, his aide.

Doyle Names Yankees Makes Reds, Cards Even

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, April 8 — Jack Doyle, Broadway's sports oracle, has returned from his annual tour of the spring training camps, bringing with him his betting odds on the impending pennant races.

Jack has been doing this sort of thing for 30 years. He can and does make book on any and every sports event but he is more interested in baseball than anything else and knows that sport better than any other.

"The Yanks," said Jack today, "are still tops in my book. It's very easy for Connie Mack or anybody else to predict they can't win their fifth straight pennant but will Connie or anybody else please tell me what the other teams have to beat them with?"

"As for the National League, it looks more scrambled than ever and for the first time in my life I've been unable to install a clear-cut favorite."

Here's Jack's book on the teams, straight, place and show:

American League
New York	7/20	Chicago	15/1
Boston	9/2	Wash.	30/1
Cleveland	8/2	Phila.	50/1
Detroit	10/1	St. Louis	100/1

National League
Cinc.	11/5	New York	7/1
St. Louis	11/1	Pitts.	10/1
Brooklyn	5/1	Boston	50/1
Chicago	5/1	Phila.	100/1

The best-looking bet on the board, Jack admits, is Cleveland to run third at 7 to 10.

"I could have made up this book almost as well last fall," said the sports sage, "but I wanted to see if any of the teams had uncovered any new phenoms to make me change my opinion."

"What I saw convinced me the Yanks are stronger than ever. They've got theirs; the others have theirs to get."

"I give six teams a chance to make the first division in the National and any one of the six might win the pennant without causing too much surprise. Not one team in the league is perfectly balanced. They all have their weak spots and under such conditions anything can happen."

"The one sure bet is that there will be more betting on the National League than ever before. Wanta bet?"

SOUTHPAW STAR GIVES NEW HOPE TO REDLEG FANS

CINCINNATI, April 8 — One week from tomorrow the Cincinnati Reds set out in defense of their national league baseball pennant, opening at Crosley Field against the Chicago Cubs.

And, as the initial tilt neared, there was considerable speculation in this rapid baseball town as to whether the champs will be able to duplicate last year's successful venture.

During the spring training season, the Reds have not been impressive, winning approximately one-third of "grapefruit league" encounters.

A bright light in an otherwise mediocre picture was the work Saturday of Johnny Vander Meer, of no run, no hit fame. Topping the last four innings against the Boston Red Sox, Johnny allowed only one run and whiffed five batters. This indicated, perhaps that Johnny's ailing flipper is again normal. Every one in Cincinnati believes the Reds should be stronger this year than they were in 1939. But performance in the southern climes refute that belief.

The left field spot is still a problem. Mike McCormick and Vince DiMaggio have been alternating in that garden. But neither has been overly "hot." Waiting around to step into the gap in the event McCormick or DiMaggio wind up on the bench is the veteran Wally Berger who is dependable if nothing else.

At any rate, Crosley Field on April 16 will be jammed with loyal fans who string along with their favorites—win or lose.

FELLER FACES GIANTS

ANDERSON S. C., April 8 — Bobby Feller will pitch for the Cleveland Indians today they attempt to even their training camp series with the New York Giants at five games each. The Giants won 3 to 2 against the Indians at Gadsden, Ala., yesterday and took a 5 to 4 lead in the series.

Demaret Wins

JIMMY Demaret, above, couldn't repress this smile of hope as he won the annual Masters golf tournament at Augusta, Ga.

DEMARET RESTS BEFORE TEST IN NATIONAL OPEN

By Lester Rice

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8—Jimmy Demaret, the "tough cookie" of Texas, was airplaning toward his faraway home town of Houston today, his pockets loaded with the $1,500 he won in the Masters Tournament but it wasn't to be long before he headed north again for the Goodall round-robin match-play tournament of Long Island early in May.

Demaret, the insouciant stylist, who beat the best of the country's crackerjack professionals and amateurs by four strokes with a four-round score of 280, wasn't sure that he would remain in the East long enough to play in the Metropolitan Open at Bloomfield, N. J., but was eager to match his woods and irons against the celebrated colleagues who are to be invited to take part in the Goodall merry-go-round.

"I'd like to remain over for the Metropolitan," Demaret said before taking off for Texas, "but I think I ought to rest up a bit before going on to Cleveland for the National Open. Playing as much as I have been all winter I wouldn't want to have my keenness blunted before taking up at Canterbury."

Incidentally, Ralph Guldahl, whom Demaret succeeded as the master craftsman at Augusta, will turn down a bid to the Goodall party and concentrate on the National Open. The slope-shouldered Texan who was best man at the game's biggest show in 1937 and 1938, is a firm believer in preparedness and went directly from Augusta to Cleveland to begin practice.

PATSY ENDS TROUBLES?

COLUMBUS, April 8 — The marital difficulties of Patsy Peroni, Canton heavyweight boxer, may be settled by a conference between him and his wife's lawyers tomorrow, clearing the way for a return bout with Jack "Buddy" Walker, Ohio heavy champ. The two fought to a rousing ten-round draw a week ago in the best scrap seen in Columbus in many a year.

The first United States patent was granted nearly 150 years ago to a Samuel Hopkins for a process of making pot and pearl ashes — and he was not the inventor. His wife was.

BEAGLE CLUB'S INITIAL EVENT GREAT SUCCESS

R. B. Welch's Dogs Claim First Awards In Both Classes Conducted

OTHER WINNERS LISTED

30 Canines Compete, Many Visitors Present For Sunday Contest

Officials of the Scioto Trails Beagle Club, recently organized, expressed pleasure Monday with the interest shown and the results of their first field trial conducted Sunday on newly-leased land north of Tarleton. Despite the rainy weather a large crowd was present to watch the fine dogs entered in the trials compete for cash prizes.

The day was ideal for trailing, the entry list was large, numbering 30 splendid dogs, and the number of persons present was more than expected on such a day. Dogs competed from Circleville, Piketon, Portsmouth, Lancaster and Columbus, and visitors were present from many other south central Ohio cities.

Dogs owned by R. B. Welch of near Circleville featured the two events, Rockbridge Corky taking first place in the 13-inch class contested in the morning, and Rockbridge Mary R. knocking off first money in the 15-inch class conducted in the afternoon.

There were 14 dogs in the 13-inch competition and 16 in the 15-inch class.

Other prize winners were:

- Thirteen Inch
2. Egan's Gwen, Ed Egan, Laurelvile.
3. Blue Creek Toots, Dwight Chilcote, Columbus.
4. Rambling Flecky Riley, Ed Egan, Laurelvile.
Reserve: Viewpoint Blackie, John Hale, Lancaster.

- Fifteen Inch
2. Wimpy's Babe, Floyd Dixon, Piketon.
3. Bunny Haven Betty Boop, Norman Tibbs, Lancaster.
4. Arkansas Traveler, Ray Hall, Columbus.
5. Turkey Creek Farmer, F. C. Gamperline, Portsmouth.

Judges for the 13-inch class were Roland Grimm and Clarence Hale of Lancaster and for the 15-inch class Dwight Chilcote and Rowe Wheeler of Columbus.

COLT ASSOCIATION FINDS ITS ENTRY LIST LARGEST

GREENVILLE, April 8 — The largest entry list in its history was piled up by the Ohio Colt Racing Association for its 1940 races in Ohio, Secretary Charles I. Gordon announced today.

Gordon disclosed that 69 colts have been entered in the races for two-year-old trotters; 72 in the two-year-old pace; 51 in the three-year-old trot and 51 in the three-year-old pace.

Entries came from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina and Canada.

Fairs in the following Ohio towns sponsor these colt stakes: Xenia, Wilmington, Troy, Greenville, Van Wert, Sidney, Bellefontaine and Marysville.

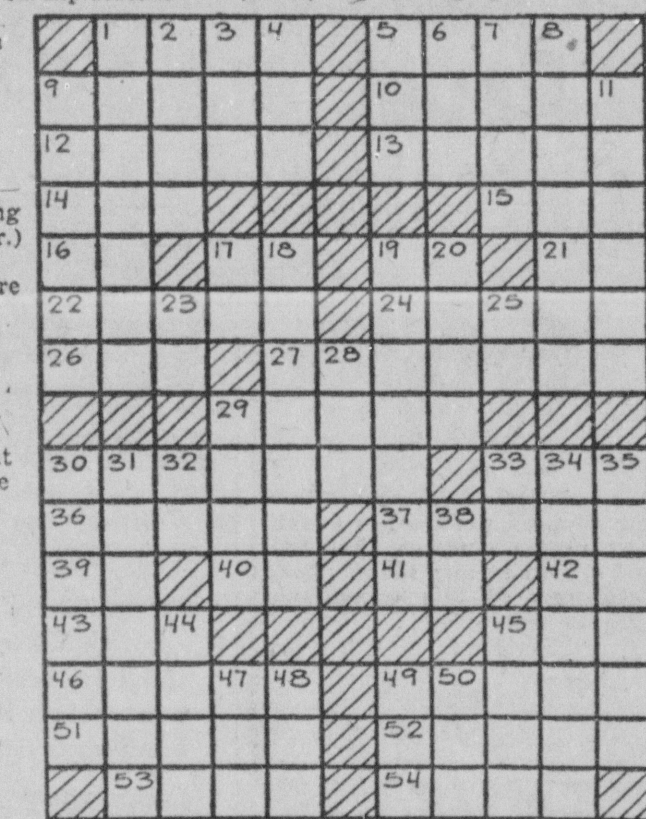

The first United States patent was granted nearly 150 years ago to a Samuel Hopkins for a process of making pot and pearl ashes — and he was not the inventor. His wife was.

PARALLEL PARKING BEGINS ON MAIN STREET DESPITE LACK OF MARKING

MOTORISTS PUT AUTOS AGAINST CURB UNDER LAW

Safety Department Requests Cooperation Until Signs Can Be Provided

"STOP" SYSTEM REVISED

New Sidewalk Repair Plans To Get Started In Early Summer

Circleville's Main Street parallel parking program got under way Monday although the safety department's plan to paint street signs during the week end was washed out by rain that started to fall just as all equipment was ready for the painting to start.

Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann and Traffic Patrolman Miller Fissell asked Monday that motorists cooperate by parallel parking on Main Street until the thoroughfare can be properly marked.

Drivers who went into the downtown district early Monday started to parallel park despite the fact that there were no signs present to guide them. Only a few cars were angle-parked during the morning and the safety department had these straightened out before any complication arose.

Because of the difficulty of painting the streets and maintaining traffic at the same time, the safety department plans to try its painting program again next Sunday morning starting as early as possible.

Stop Streets Marked

At the same time that the parallel parking ordinance started, a new series of stop and through streets became effective. Motorists are asked to exercise care since several streets that have been classed as "through" highways are now "stop" streets. All have been well marked.

The safety department is trying to "educate" motorists concerning the new traffic laws by issuing pamphlets containing the law as voted by council. About 1,500 pamphlets have been distributed in filling stations and other places where motorists gather.

Sign-Up To Start For WPA Sidewalk

With April 30 listed as the deadline for persons to announce participation in the Circleville WPA sidewalk, curb and gutter program for 1940, George Crum, employed by the city as a solicitor, started to work Monday to line up properties which will be improved during the spring and summer.

Mr. Crum, an engineer, pointed out that all interested persons must have expressed themselves prior to April 30 at which time the project will be made up and sent to WPA officials in Columbus for approval. No properties will be accepted after April 30, Crum said. The price for repairs to the property owner will be nine cents a square foot for sidewalks and 40 cents a lineal foot for curbing and gutters.

The sidewalk program is being worked up to coincide with the completion of the Atwater Avenue improvement in the north end of Circleville. It is hoped that the sidewalk job can be started when the Atwater work ends, the WPA men being transferred from one job to the other.

Persons interested in the sidewalk improvement should contact Crum at his home or call at city hall.

FIRE IN SCIOTO TOWNSHIP GIVES NEW TRUCK JOB

ALL BUILDINGS SAVED

Chief Wise Says Volunteers Fail To Appear Despite Definite Plan

The initial run finally came to the new Township Volunteer Fire Truck Saturday when a blaze was reported on the farm of W. G. Graham on Warpath Road, six miles east of Orient.

Breaking out in the farthest from Circleville of the nine townships in the association, the call proved the first true tests of the equipment. Water had to be pumped from a nearby creek to wet down the burning strawstack and the adjacent barns. The blaze was limited to the strawstack and the reported damage of $20 was covered by Hummel and Plum insurance.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise was at the scene 25 minutes after the call was received. He returned to Circleville after he was certain that the fire had burned itself out.

Under the arrangement between the fire department and the Township Volunteer Fire Protective Association, which purchased the truck, only one Circleville fireman is to take the truck and operate it at the scene of the fire. The township trustees are to notify the volunteers in their township of the location of the fire and they, in turn, are to appear with milk cans filled with water to supplement the trucks tanks.

Chief Wise reported that no volunteers arrived and hose had to be stretched to draw water from a nearby creek, but the truck's

THOMAS TO RUN AGAIN FOR POST IN WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 8—For the fourth time Norman Thomas, 55-year-old New Yorker who was born in Marion, Ohio—President Harding's birthplace—will run for president as the candidate of the National Socialist Party.

Thomas was chosen by the Socialist convention, meeting in the capital, yesterday. For his running mate the convention named Maynard Kruger, associate professor of economics at the University of Chicago. Kruger will be 35 years old, the legal minimum for holding the vice-presidency, next January 16, just four days before inauguration.

NEW YORK, April 8—Declaring the other leading Republican candidates for the presidential nomination "have demonstrated their unfitness," Col. Henry Breckinridge, an independent Democrat who supported Alf Landon in 1936, today urged the G.O.P. to nominate Wendell Willkie, the utilities executive.

"As a lighthouse in the dark, Willkie stands in contrast" to Thomas E. Dewey, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg and Sen. Robert A. Taft, Breckinridge declared.

pumps worked in perfect running order. Complete satisfaction with the truck's first performance was expressed by Chief Wise.

YOUNG FLIERS DIE IN CRASH

Planes Collide On Way Back To Hangars After Pleasure Cruise

SIDNEY, O., April 8—A mid-air plane crash that killed Robert E. Shrader, 28, of Dayton, and Jack Whitmer, 19, of Tippicanoe City, pilots of the low-powered training ships, was being investigated today by County authorities and the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Witnesses said both ships were flying south in a drizzling rain when one plane appeared to swoop down on the other.

Whitmer's ship, with a wing sheared off, crashed only 30 feet from the farm home of Fred Boyer, a half-mile west of Anna. Shrader's craft crashed in flames on the same farm.

The two flyers were returning to their Dayton hangar after a flight to Lima and Greenville. The pilots, who had often flown together, were accredited with 35 hours flying time and were possessors of solo flight certificates, which grant privileges above those given to students.

CHASTENED HERO

George A. De Cottes of the Capitol Police Force will vouch for the fact that a patrolman's lot is not a happy one.

De Cottes is the handsome young cop who singlehandedly captured a gunman who had held up a liquor store. On his way home from work and unarmed, he chased the bandit into the basement of an apartment house and overpowered him. The daring exploit won De Cottes a lot of public commendation—but not from his superiors.

Reporting for work the next morning he was met by a sour-faced sergeant who informed him that "the boss" was very much displeased by his "behavior" the night before.

"But why?" gasped De Cottes. "I risked my life to uphold the law. That might have bumped me off."

"That's beside the point," snapped the sergeant. "The boss is sore because you wore your uniform home. You had no business to do that. You know that's against regulations."

Note—Six feet tall, sandy-haired and 27, De Cottes is from Jacksonville, Fla., where he studied law, has a wife and child and is ambitious to be a G-man.
